CREATIONS. U.K.: Bn. Strafford, 1835; E. of Strafford and Visc. Enfield, 1847.—This well-known Earldom of more troublous times was revived and awarded to Fd.-Marshal the Rt. Hon. Sir John Byng, G.C.B., G.C.H., grandson of the 1st Visc. Torrington and on his mother's side a descendant of the Wentworth family, to whom the original Peerage was assigned: he was a distinguished Commander in the Peninsula and at Waterloo. The Barony was conferred on him first, and the Earldom twelve years later. Both the 2nd and 3rd Earls were summoned to the Lords in their fathers' Barony, having previously sat in the Commons: the 3rd Earl was Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs and for India. Of earlier holders of the Earldom the first was Thos. Wentworth, who was impeached and beheaded in 1641. His son had the honours restored to him in 1662, but he died childless in 1695. The title was again revived in 1711 and conferred upon the 3rd Bn. Raby, who was a great-nephew of the 1st Earl; and under this creation it was held by three Peers and expired in 1799.

Creations. Eng.: E. of Suffolk, 1603; Visc. Andover and Bn. Howard of Charlton, 1622; E. of Berkshire, 1626. —Lord Thos. Howard, son of the attainted 4th Duke of Norfolk (beheaded 1572), was created Earl of Suffolk: he had been a distinguished naval officer under Elizabeth and was specially vigilant in discovering the Gunpowder Plot; later on he was appointed Chancellor of Cambridge University and Lord High Treasurer of England. Previously to the Earldom he had received the Barony of Howard de Walden, but that Barony fell into abeyance on the death of the 3rd Earl and ultimately was revived in a different branch of the family. The 1st Earl's 2nd son was created Visc. Andover and afterwards Earl of Berkshire. The 4th Earl of the latter title succeeded as 11th Earl of Suffolk (the tenures of title in this line having averaged much shorter than those of the other owing to a brother or uncle having succeeded in four instances). Former Earldoms of Suffolk had existed, and one of them in 1448 rose to be a Dukedom: the 3rd Duke was beheaded in 1513 and a 4th created a year after; the 7th and last was beheaded in 1554. There had also been one Earl of Berkshire previous to the above creation, but this lasted only 1620-3.

Ald. for Staffordsh., and Hon. Col. Staffs. Imper. Yeom., formerly Lieut. 2nd Life Gds., and an M.P. (1874-86, as M. of Stafford), was Mayor of Longton 1895: son of 3rd D.; b. July 20, 1851; suc. 1892 (L.U.); mar. 1884 Lady Millicent Fanny St.-Clair-Erskine, dau. of 4th E. of Rosslyn. Seats, Dunrobin Castle, Golspie, Sutherland; House of Tongue, Tongue S.O., same Co.; Pickwell Manor, Oakham; Lilleshall, Newport, Salop; town res., Stafford House, St. James's, S.W.

Creations. Scot.: E. of Sutherland and Ld. Strathnaver (about 1228). Eng.: A Bt. 1620; Bn. Gower, 1703; Gt. Br.: Earl Gower and Visc. Trentham, 1746; Marq. of Stafford, 1786. U.K.: D. of Sutherland, 1833. The Scottish Earldom is said to have existed in 1057; but William, styled the 1st Earl, was given the title in 1228 for his services in suppressing an insurrection. The 11th Earl was succeeded by his sister. The 12th (rather 13th, if the Countess is reckoned) forfeited his title in 1562 from suspected complicity in the Earl of Huntly's rebellion; but it was restored in 1565, from which date his precedence is reckoned in the Scottish Roll of Peers. He was afterwards poisoned by his uncle's widow, who wanted the title for her son; but his own son escaped by accidental detention from the poisoned meal, and the perpetrator was sentenced to death, but preferred suicide in prison. The Countess who was 21st in line married the 2nd Marq. of Stafford, who long afterwards was created 1st Duke (in 1833). The 1st Bn. Gower was Sir Jno. Leveson-Gower, 5th Bt., who had married a daughter of the 1st Duke of Rutland. His successor was raised to the Earldom, the 2nd Earl to the Marquessate, and the 2nd Marq. to the Dukedom. It was the 2nd Duke who assumed the additional name of Sutherland.

TAAFFE, family name of follg. Viscounty.

TAAFFE, VISCOUNT. HENRY Taaffe, 12th Visc. (Irel.), a Count of the Holy Rom. Emp. ; Lieut. in Austrian Army : son of 11th V. ; b. May 22, 1872 ; suc. 1895 ; mar. 1897 Maria Magda Fuchs. Seat, Ellischau Castle, Post Silberberg, Bohemia ; Kolinetz Castle, Bohemia.

CREATIONS. Irel. : Visc. Taaffe and Bn. of Ballymote, 1628. Holy Rom. Emp. (Austro-Germ.) : A Count, 1784.—Sir John Taaffe (Kt.), son of Sir Wm. Taaffe (who had distinguished himself in putting down an Irish rebellion in 1597, as also in repulsing a Spanish invasion), was awarded these Irish Peerages. The 2nd Visc., who was made Earl of Carlingford, had been a zealous supporter of the Royal cause during the Civil War, and in consequence his estates were sequestered, bringing about the Continental residence of the family. The 3rd Earl, who was Chamberlain to the Emperor Ferdinand, a Marshal of the Empire and Councillor of State, was given the Holy Roman Countship. The Earldom lapsed on the death of the 4th Earl (5th Visc.) in 1783. The 6th Visc., who, being a collateral, obtained the Countship only by new creation as a reward for his services, defeated the Turks at the Siege of Belgrade. The 4th Count (9th Visc.) was Governor of Styria and Galicia and President of the Supreme Court of Appeal at Vienna. This series of foreign associations led to a questioning by the House of Lords as to the next Visct.'s status as a British subject ; but this was recognised by the Committee of Privileges in 1860. The 11th Visc. was Prime Minister of Austria 1879-93.

TENNYSON, family name of follg. Barony.

TENNYSON, Baron. Hallam Tennyson, 2nd Bn. (U.K.), P.C. (Gt. Br. 1905), G.C.M.G. (1903), LL.D., D.C.L., D.Litt., F.R.C.I., a D.L. for I. of Wight, Hon. Col. S. Australn. Artill. and 7th Austr. Lt. Horse, was Gov. of S. Australia 1899-1902, Gov.-Gen. of the Commonwealth 1902-4: son of 1st Bn. and author of his 'Memoir;' b. Aug. 11, 1852; suc. 1892 (L.U.); mar. 1884 Audrey Georgiana Florence, dau. of the late Chas. J. Boyle, Esq. Seat, Farringford, Freshwater S.O., I.W.; res., Aldworth, Haslemere S.O., Surrey.

Creation. U.K.: Bn. Tennyson, 1884.—The family is directly descended from Jno. Tenison of Holdernesse, who died in the middle of the 14th century. Ralph Tennyson, who died in 1735, was a prominent supporter of King William III. His son Michael settled at Preston in Yorkshire and Stainton in Lincolnshire, and married Elizabeth Clayton of Grimsby, a descendant of the 1st E. of Scarsdale, who was also Bn. Deincourt (or D'Eyncourt) of Sutton—both titles extinct from 1736 (the Barony of Scarsdale, which happens singularly to be connected with the family of the still greater poet Byron—see "Lovelace"—being a totally distinct Peerage). [This comparison with Byron his present Lordship deleted in 1906 with marks of surprised indignation. The Editor alone is responsible, and he trusts that Lord T. will have no apprehension of its being taken as coming from himself. It is true that Byron is now very largely neglected; but of those who have seriously read both the poets the number that would assign Tennyson the pre-eminence must be extremely few. But to resume.] Their son George Tennyson, of Bayons Manor and Usselby House, both in Lincolnshire, was grandfather of the Poet, and had, besides daughters, two sons who became respectively the Rev. Geo. Clayton Tennyson, LL.D., and the Rt. Hon. Chas. Tennyson-d'Eyncourt, F.R.S., M.P. The former settled down as Rector of Somersby (distinct from Somerby), a minute village in the Lincolnshire wolds, near Spilsby. He married Elizabeth, daughter of Rev. Stephen Fytche, and had by her a family of eight sons and four daughters, of whom the 1st son died in infancy, the 2nd (Frederick) lived to be 91 years of age, and the 3rd was known as the Rev. Charles Tennyson-Turner. The 4th was Alfred, 1st Bn. Tennyson, D.C.L., F.R.S., Poet Laureate 1850–92: b. at Somersby Aug. 6, 1809; d. at Haslemere, Oct. 6, 1892. His father died in 1831, but his grandfather survived till 1835, about which time the family left Lincolnshire and were located first at Beech Hill House, High Beech, Epping Forest. Alfred Tennyson in 1850 married, at Shiplake, Oxfordshire, Emily (the late Dowager Lady Tennyson, who died 1896), dau. of Hy. Sellwood, Esq. (of Horncastle, but sprung from a Berkshire family), and niece of Sir John Franklin. A year or two previously he had gone to reside at Chapel House (afterwards Holyrood House, and now Tennyson House), Montpelier Row, Twickenham, where the present Peer was born, and which continued to be one of the family residences until 1853, when he removed to Farringford Hill in the Isle of Wight. The residence at Haslemere was acquired in 1869.

Raynham" is the courtesy-title of an eld. son. — Sir Horatio Townshend, 3rd Bt., was awarded the Barony and Viscty. in recognition of the part he had taken in bringing about the Restoration. The 2nd Visc. was Ambassador at the Hague, and afterwards Lord Lieutenant of Ireland. The 4th Visc., a P.C. and also a Field-Marshal in the Army, who had been engaged at Dettingen, Fontenoy, Culloden, and Quebec, was rewarded by elevation to the Marquessate. The 2nd Marq. succeeded his mother as Bn. Compton (cr. 1572) and Bn. Ferrers de Chartley (1299), and was created (1837) Earl of Leicester. This last title expired with his successor in 1855, and the Baronies have ever since been in abeyance. From 1837 to 1855 there were thus two Earldoms of Leicester co-existing, the one still extant being "Leicester of Holkham." The 4th Marq. was a Rear-Admiral R.N.

May 14, 1861: suc. 1891, claim estab. 1893; mar. 1889 the late Margaret Theresa (d. 1901), dau. of Richd. J. Stephens, Esq., of Brisbane.

CREATION. Irel.: Bn. Trimlestown, 1461. (The 16th Bn. spelt the title "Trimleston," and that is the form in the Irish Roll, but the present Peer restored the form here given.)—Sir Robt. Barnewall was created 1st Bn. by Edward IV. His successor had to receive a pardon for participation in the plot of Lambert Simnel. The 3rd Bn. was Lord High Chancellor of Ireland. On the death of the 16th Peer in 1879 the title was dormant till 1891, when it was claimed by a remote cousin who died the same year, before his right had been established: this process had consequently to be undertaken by his brother the present Baron. In 1634 there was a dispute as to precedence between the 7th Bn. and the 9th Bn. Dunsany, and it was then decided in favour of the former. In 1893, when the present Peer established his right, the order was reversed; but still later a new Roll was made up with "Trimleston" restored to its former position.

CREATIONS. Irel.: A Bt. 1620; Visc. of Valentia, 1622 (N.S.); Bn. Mountnorris, 1629.—Sir Fras. Annesley (Kt.), a P.C. and Secretary of State in the Irish Government, was created a Baronet (the second person in Ireland to obtain that title) and afterwards made Bn. Mountnorris. The Viscountcy was a reversionary grant to fall to Sir Francis on the death of the then Visc., who was without an heir (Sir Henry Power, cr. Visc. 1622, d.

1642); the Mountnorris Barony was valid at once. The 2nd Visc. was made Earl of Anglesey and Bn. Annesley in the English Peerage, and these titles descended to the 6th Earl, who was also 5th Bn. Altham, a title conferred on the 1st Earl's 2nd son. But on his death in 1761 the English House of Lords refused to admit this 6th Earl's eldest son, raising an objection to his legitimacy, which the Irish Parliament had accepted as good. He thus retained the Irish honours and had that of Earl of Mountnorris added to them—an Earldom that went no further than his only surviving son (1793-1844). The Viscty. and the Mountnorris Barony now passed again to a collateral, the grandfather and predecessor of the present Peer; 'Debrett,' however, regards both of these as unsubstantiated claimants only, stating that they have never had their titles established by the Committee of Privileges.

Creations. Eng.: A Bt. 1643; Bn. Waldegrave, 1686 (N.S.). Gt. Br.: Earl Waldegrave and Visc. Chewton, 1729.—Sir Henry Waldegrave, 4th Bt., was created 1st Bn. by James II., a natural daughter of whom he married. His successor was raised to the Earldom, and, becoming a Protestant, was able to take his seat in the Lords. The 5th Earl was drowned when a boy. The 8th was a Vice-Admiral and C.B., and was serving in the Mediterranean at the time of Nelson's victory at Trafalgar, but we are asked to correct the statement that he was himself engaged in that battle. The widow of the 7th Earl lived at the mansion of Strawberry Hill, and married as her 4th husband Chichester Fortescue, afterwards Lord Carlingford. The 1st Ld. Radstock was a brother of the 4th Earl.

CREATIONS. Eng.: Bn. Brooke, 1621. Gt. Br.: Earl Brooke, 1746 ; E. of Warwick, 1759.—The Rt. Hon. Sir Fulke Greville, a Kt. of the Bath and Chancellor of the Exchequer, was created 1st Bn. Brooke ; he was descended on the female side from the brother of Wm. de Beauchamp, 10th Earl of Warwick (died 1298) in the original line. The 2nd Bn. was a General in the Parliamentary Army at Edgehill and in the Siege of Lichfield, during the latter of which he was killed by a musket-ball. The 4th Bn. was one of the Commissioners who invited Charles II. to return. The 8th Bn. was promoted to be Earl Brooke ; and later, when a pre-existing Earldom of Warwick had become extinct, that title was added to his previous one. There had been Earls of Warwick from the time of William II., and the extinctions, forfeitures, and beheadings which have followed them, make the title a rival in tragedy with the Norfolk Dukedom. These concomitants, however, have been happily absent from the present line of descent. The 13th Earl of the original line (brother-in-law of the famous "king-maker," who in 1450 was created Earl for life) was promoted to be Duke of Warwick and crowned "King of the Isle of Wight" by Henry VI.'s own hand. These latter honours went no further than himself, and his sister's husband, who received the Earldom by a fresh creation, was slain at Barnet in 1471. Edward IV.'s brother, the Duke of Clarence, was the next recipient of the title, but he was attainted and murdered, his three successors being all beheaded. The second of the three who thus suffered was Margaret, Countess of Salisbury and Warwick ; whilst the third, who was previously Visc. L'Isle, was created Duke of Northumberland two years before his execution. His son was restored to the Earldom, but died childless in 1589, when the title remained extinct till 1618. A new series of eight Earls now followed, and upon the lapsing of their line in 1759 that of the present Earl succeeded as stated above. "Earl Brooke," being the older, is the leading title upon the Roll.

Waterford ; Ford Castle, Cornhill-on-Tweed S.O., N'thumb.

CREATIONS. Irel.: Bn. La Poer, 1375 by writ ; a Bt. 1665 ; Visc. Tyrone and Bn. Beresford, 1720 ; E. of Tyrone, 1746 ; M. of Waterford, 1789. Gt. Br.: Bn. Tyrone, 1786.—'Burke' gives us the precise date of creation of the original Barony, but does not give the name of its first holder, so that it appears doubtful whether he is satisfied of its existence ; Bn. le Power, however (a title under attainder from about 1700, and the heir to which is E. de P. de la Poer, Esq.), he gives us as a descendant of Robt. de Poher, Knight Marshal and Joint Governor of Ireland in 1179. The 6th Bn. was in 1673 created Earl of Tyrone and Visc. Decies, but these titles expired with the 3rd Earl. The daughter of this last, however, who was allowed the Barony of La Poer in fee, married Sir Marcus Beresford, 4th Bt., and to him were accorded the Viscty. of Tyrone and subsequently a renewal of the lapsed Earldom. The 2nd Earl was elevated to the Marquessate and created Bn. Tyrone of Gt. Britain, whilst on the death of his mother he inherited also the Barony of La Poer—the only Irish Peerage besides the Massereene Viscty. which is open to female succession. The 4th Marq. was in holy orders, whilst the 5th, who had represented Co. Waterford in Parliament, became its Lieutenant, a K.P., and Master of the Buckhounds.

CREATIONS. U.K. : Visc. Wellington and Bn. Douro, 1809 ; Marq. and Earl of Wellington, 1812 ; D. of Wellington and Marq. Douro, 1814. Irel. : Bn. Mornington, 1746 ; E. of Mornington and Visc. Wellesley, 1760. Nethds. : Prince of Waterloo, 1815. Spain : Duque de Ciudad Rodrigo and a Grandee of the 1st Class, 1812. Portugal : Conde da Vimieira (or -eiro, both correct forms), 1811 ; Duque da Vitoria (commonly spelt Vittoria, but the town is in Spain, where tt is never used), and Marquez de Torres Vedras, 1812.—Of the deeds of the great Duke of Wellington, the "hero of a hundred fights," this book is called upon to chronicle but the slightest summary. He sat in the Irish Parliament in 1790 as Member for Trim, but from 1794 to 1815 his career was all but wholly a military one. His first great battle was that of Assaye (1803) in the Nizam's dominions ; and after it came the long series of the Peninsular War—Vimieira, Talavera, Busaco, Fuentes d' Onoro, Ciudad Rodrigo, Badajoz, Salamanca, and Vitoria (these in 1808-13), followed by Orthez and Toulouse in France (1814), and then Quatre Bras and Waterloo. From Jan. 1828 for not quite three years he was Prime Minister. He died in 1852 at the age of 83. All the above honours of U.K. and the Continent were accorded to him personally. His grandfather the 1st Bn. Mornington (Irish Peerage) was Richd. Colley, who assumed a cousin's surname of Wesley (the celebrated Rev. Jno. Wesley was a relative) and afterwards changed it to Wellesley. The 2nd Bn. obtained the Earldom of Mornington, and his 3rd son was the 1st Duke. The two elder sons were respectively Richard, 2nd Earl, created Marq. Wellesley in Ireland, who was Governor-General of India, but died childless ; and William, 3rd Earl, created Bn. Maryborough—both titles passing to his son and grandson, but that of Maryborough lapsing on the death of this last in 1863, when the Mornington titles and the Wellesley Viscty. went to the 2nd Duke.

CREATIONS. Scot.: Ld. Wemyss, 1628; E. of Wemyss and Ld. Elcho and Methel, 1633; E. of March, Visc. of Peebles, and Ld. Douglas of Neidpath, Lyne, and Munard, 1697. U.K.: Bn. Wemyss, 1821.—Sir J. no. Wemyss, 1st Bt. (a title which expired with his son), was created 1st Ld. and Earl: he sided with the Parliament in the Civil War. The 2nd Peer obtained a new patent giving remainder of his Earldom and Lordship to his daughter and her heirs male. The heir of the Earl 5th in line was attainted for taking part in the rebellion of 1745, so that the titles remained dormant from his father's death till his own (1756-87), when, as he left no issue, his brother succeeded as untouched by the attainder. ('Burke, however, singularly calls the attainted successor "6th Earl de jure," thus making the present Peer the 10th; 'Debrett' on the other hand, omitting the Ctss. in the numbering, styles him only the 8th.) The latter's grandson, the 7th Earl, inherited also the Earldom of March, first bestowed on a son of the 1st Duke of Queensberry, the Hon. W. Douglas, whose sister had married the 4th Earl of Wemyss. The 7th Earl was likewise the recipient of the U.K. Barony. Surname conventionally Charteris only: this had been assumed in 1771 by the 6th Earl; Douglas appears to have been added by the 7th on his accession to the March Earldom with the landed estate of his great great grandmother Lady Anne Douglas.

Galway.

Creations. Irel.: Bn. of Delvin, abt. 1180 by tenure, perhaps 1389 by writ; E. of Westmeath, 1621.—The name of Gilbert de Nugent is given as that of the 1st Bn. by tenure. The title then passed by marriage to the Fitz-John family, but came back by the same process to Sir Wm. Nugent. In concert with the Earl of Kildare the 12th Bn. was engaged in hostilities with the native Chiefs, by one of whom, O'Connor, he was treacherously made a prisoner and kept long in confinement. The 14th Bn. was commissioned by the Crown to extirpate the O'Mores, but was sent prisoner to London in 1580 on suspicion of holding treasonable correspondence with the Leinster rebels; having, however, established his innocence, he returned to Ireland, and Elizabeth ordered him several grants of forfeited land, which the troubles of the country prevented his receiving. His son, the 15th Bn., was raised to the Earldom. The 4th Earl was outlawed for having fought for James II., but the sentence was afterwards remitted. The 6th Earl conformed to the Protestant Church. The 8th was in 1822 created a Marquess, but he left no son and that title lapsed in 1879, whilst the Earldom passed to a cousin, an ancestor of whom had been created Lord Riverston by James II. after abdication—the title consequently being never admitted, though it continued to be used till its holder became 9th Earl. The 10th served on the Continent.

Creation. Eng.: E. of Westmorland and Bn. Burghersh, 1624.—Sir Francis Fane, Kt. of the Bath, was created a Peer by these two titles. He shortly afterwards succeeded his mother in the ancient Barony of Le Despencer, which through female succession passed from one house to another, and is now vested in the Falmouth Viscty. The 7th Earl was made Bn. Catherlough in the Irish Peerage, but he left no successor to that honour, and the Earldom, which had undergone several short tenures, now went to a great-great-grandson of its first holder. The 11th Earl was a distinguished General, and also British Envoy at Berlin and Vienna.

CREATION. U.K.: E. of Wilton and Visc. Grey de Wilton, 1801. — Sir Thos. Egerton, 7th Bt., 5th in descent from the sister of Thomas, Lord Grey de Wilton (attainted in 1604), was in 1784 created a Peer by these titles. As he had no male issue, the remainder was in 1801 extended to the younger sons of his daughter, wife of the 1st Marq. of Westminster; but the Baronetcy passed to another descendant of the 1st Bt., and is now that of Grey-Egerton. The 2nd Earl (né Grosvenor) resumed the family name of Egerton. The 3rd Peer, having been M.P. for Weymouth and Bath, was before succession created Bn. Grey de Radcliffe; but he died without issue, and this title lapsed, whilst the Earldom went to his brother.

Stanley Howard of Ballina Pk., Wicklow, and widow of Samuel Garnett, Esq. Seat, Amport St. Mary's, Andover, Hants.

CREATIONS. Eng.: Bn. St. John of Basing, 1539; E. of Wiltshire, 1550; M. of Winchester, 1551.—Sir Wm. Paulet, K.G., was the recipient of these three creations. He was a confidant of Henry VIII. and held the office of Lord Treasurer of England through the changes of the three succeeding reigns; and on being once asked how he had contrived to stand through them all, he replied, "By being a willow, not an oak." The 3rd Peer was given to literature and writing poetry. The 5th sacrificed all his property through supporting Charles I. in the Civil War, his mansion at Basing being burnt to the ground after a siege. The 6th Marq. was made Duke of Bolton, and that title ran through six in the line. The 3rd Duke (8th Marq.) involved himself with the actress Lavinia Bestwick, and had three sons by her previously to the death of his 1st wife. As he left no other issue, though he eventually married the actress, his titles went to his brother; but on the death of the 6th Duke, who was an Admiral of the White, the Dukedom expired and the Marquessate passed to a descendant of the 5th holder of that title. The 13th Marq. in his closing years assumed the additional name of Burroughs, but this appears to have been for himself alone. His grandson the 15th Peer was a Major in the Coldstream Guards and was killed at Magersfontein in December 1899.

Maidstone and Ctss. of Winchilsea. The eldest son succeeded his father in the Baronetcy, but he predeceased his mother, so that his next brother became her successor in the Peerage. Sir Heneage Finch (Kt.), son of the 3rd brother, having been Attorney-General and Lord Keeper of the Great Seal, was separately created a Bt. and raised to the Peerage as Bn. Finch, and subsequently appointed Lord Chancellor with the title of Earl of Nottingham. His son, the 2nd Earl, succeeded as 7th Earl of Winchilsea. Previously hereto the 3rd Earl of Winchilsea (distinguished by having 27 children), who was high in favour with the 2nd Charles and James (prevailing upon the latter to return to London on his first attempted flight), was made Bn. FitzHerbert, a title that expired with the 5th Earl. His successor, named above as having united the two Earldoms, was twice Secretary of State under William, Anne, and George I.

Maidstone and Ctss. of Winchilsea. The eldest son succeeded his father in the Baronetcy, but he predeceased his mother, so that his next brother became her successor in the Peerage. Sir Heneage Finch (Kt.), son of the 3rd brother, having been Attorney-General and Lord Keeper of the Great Seal, was separately created a Bt. and raised to the Peerage as Bn. Finch, and subsequently appointed Lord Chancellor with the title of Earl of Nottingham. His son, the 2nd Earl, succeeded as 7th Earl of Winchilsea. Previously hereto the 3rd Earl of Winchilsea (distinguished by having 27 children), who was high in favour with the 2nd Charles and James (prevailing upon the latter to return to London on his first attempted flight), was made Bn. FitzHerbert, a title that expired with the 5th Earl. His successor, named above as having united the two Earldoms, was twice Secretary of State under William, Anne, and George I.

Creation. Eng.: Bn. Zouche of Haryngworth, 1308, by writ.—William la Zouche, Lord of Haryngworth, was summoned to Parliament as 1st Bn. The 4th Peer was engaged in the French wars of Richard II. and Henry IV. On the death of the 11th Bn. in 1625 the title fell into abeyance, and so continued till 1815. The 5th Bn. had married the Buss. St. Maur, 7th in line; but the abeyance affected both titles, and in the latter case has never been terminated. A second, but brief, abeyance of the Zouche line occurred in 1825, and the daughter in whose favour it was determined altered her title to De la Zouche. Her son the 14th Bn. did not continue this form, and the title stands on the Roll as "Zouche of Haryngworth."

INDEX TO THE SEATS AND RESIDENCES

CITED IN THE FOREGOING DIRECTORY.

 The design of this Index, the comprehensiveness of which we have been compelled somewhat to limit, is to furnish a ready means of reference to the occupant of every address in the Directory within the British Isles, provided it bears a distinctive name, is non-official in character, and held by a person not lower in rank than a Knight or the son or daughter of a Baron. The only exceptions are those of unsubstantiated claimants, or of ladies whose former claims to titles have been forfeited by re-marriage. Many residences will doubtless be merely villas or even houses in a terrace distinguished by some special name; but no line of exclusion can possibly be drawn, nor is it called for in a list which is not restricted to "seats." On the other hand there are almost certainly a large number of villages and hamlets cited in the form of residences; but this also is unavoidable (except by the putting of questions which would often be thought offensive) in view of the large number of actual seats which are designated by apparently local names without the addition of the word "House," "Hall," or "Park." Yet again, there are a large number of residences which are appended to more than one name in the DIRECTORY; and in these cases, if relationship cannot be traced, it is presumable that one name represents the occupant and the other the owner. We have done our best to make the distinction clear, or at any rate to supply the name of the occupant.

The greatest pains have been taken to supply to every address the far too frequently omitted post-town, a long dash being substituted when the Editor's efforts for its discovery have been without avail. More complete addresses will very often be found under the names in the Directory, but they are never consciously so abridged as to entail extra labour on the Post Office. It should be noted in the case of such abridgments as "Glos.," "Worc.," "Leic.," that they invariably denote the county and not the county town—no town whatever being contracted if it can possibly be confused with the county. "Durham" without "Co." means the city of Durham, and similarly in numerous Irish examples.

At the cost of much additional space, every address is now given in the style prescribed under our "Modes of Addressing Persons of Title;" many contractions, however, will naturally be expanded in copying. The name and style of the wife is appended in those numerous instances in which the husband does not hold a title which would on his own account have given him a place in this work.

The rule observed in alphabetising has been to treat the entire name of the residence as one word (the parenthesised "The," coming out of its true position, can only be ignored): this course is unavoidable on account of the vast number of instances in which a compound designation is spelt by some in a single word and by others in two.

STATELY HOMES OF ENGLAND.

INTRODUCTION.

ENTWINED around the time-honoured histories of the Stately Homes of England is a wealth of interesting information embracing the evolution of the nation's progress—its political struggles, martial achievements, and Court life.

From these sources many valuable details can be gleaned regarding our great naval and military commanders, the wealth and power of the nobles, the accumulation of priceless treasures of art, and the masterpieces of famous artists. Particulars can likewise be obtained regarding the basis and construction of our social fabric, the closely-guarded rights of land-tenure, the origin and titles of privileges, and numerous relics of by-gone systems.

A brief description of some of the best-known ancestral mansions cannot fail to prove of considerable interest, not only to Englishmen, Irishmen, Scotchmen, and Welshmen, but also to sons of the Motherland across the seas, scattered throughout the length and breadth of a world-wide Empire, as well as to their enterprising cousins of the New World.

There can be no doubt that a general acquaintance with the history and local environment of monuments of national value, shrines to which pilgrims are attracted with ever-increasing fascination from all the nations of the world, leads to an enlightened and wider conception of some of the factors which have actively contributed to the building up of Britain and Greater Britain.

Merely to know that Blenheim Palace is situated near Oxford, in the midst of an extensive and picturesque estate, would excite little personal interest. But to be informed for the first time that it was used as a residence by Alfred the Great, that the Park was the first one in England to be enclosed, that it was granted to the great military hero, the Duke of Marlborough, and his heirs for ever; that it is the masterpiece of the celebrated architect, Sir John Vanbrugh; and that here is preserved a valuable collection of manuscripts, including the correspondence of Queen Anne with the Duchess of Marlborough, would no doubt at once arouse the train of thought from which patriotic instincts spring, and create a lively and intelligent interest to know more about those incidents and personages connected with the history of our native land which all should be familiar with. With the object of stimulating the desire for such knowledge and to facilitate its acquisition, the following description of some of the "Stately Homes of England" is presented.

ALDENHAM HOUSE, ELSTREE.

The ancestors of Lord Aldenham (formerly the Hon. Alban Gibbs, late M.P. for the City of London) date from Edward III.'s reign, when the name of Gibbe or Gibbes existed in Devonshire. The house was erected about the end of the 17th century; and most of the rooms belong to the period of Charles II. In the Hall is a portrait of the late Lord Aldenham by G. F. Watts; also a violin entirely constructed of coloured china. In the Morning Room are chalk drawings by Miller of members of the family. On the walls of the Library are oil paintings of birds by Stacy Marks, R.A., and some fine life-size family portraits. There is a small private Chapel attached to the house. The Park is 200 acres in extent. The Gardens and Grounds extend for 75 acres. They include commodious glass-houses. Elstree station is about 1½ miles away.

ALNWICK CASTLE, NORTHUMBERLAND.

This very "gudlye howsse," as King Henry's Commissioners called it, has the appearance of a strong fortress, which indeed it was in the time of the Border frays, in which it played a conspicuous part. About 1096 Yvo de Vesci was lord of Alnwick. In 1297 the castle and barony were sold to Henry de Percy. The fourth baron was created Earl of Northumberland by Richard II.

The chief entrance is on the west side. The octagonal towers were built in 1350. On the parapet of the Barbican, as well as in other parts of the castle, are tall figures representing armed warders of the 14th century. The Armourers' Tower is a fine specimen of architecture of Edward III.'s period. In the Prudhoe Tower is the Library, which contains 15,000 volumes; and in the Auditor's Tower is the private library of the Duke, and the museum of Egyptian antiquities. The internal designs of the castle are by Canina and Monteroli. There is a profusion of carved work in the Italian style, carried out under the direction of Signor Bulletti of Florence. The Vestibule or Guard Chamber is floored with Venetian mosaic; on the frieze are pictures illustrating the ballad of Chevy Chase.

The stables and domestic offices are on an elaborate scale. The Keep has a Norman entrance. In the Park is the Brislee Tower with an inscription after the style of Nebuchadnezzar. Permission from the Estate Office is necessary in order to ascend to the summit. The Gardens are open on Thursdays from 11 to 4. At other times permission must be obtained from the Estate Office. The Chapel is of beautiful design. The interior is decorated with Italian mosaic and has a stone vaulted ceiling. The family motto is "Esperance."

ALTON TOWERS, STAFFS.

At Domesday Alton was held by the Crown, and subsequently came into possession of the Verdon family through the marriage of Bertram de Verdon (a Crusader), a great-grandson of Godfreye, Compte le Verdon, surnamed de Caplif. It afterwards passed to the Furnivals and Nevilles. The Earl of Shrewsbury (created 1442) was formerly Baron Furnival, and was descended from Thomas Neville of Hallamshire (brother of the Earl of Westmorland), who married Joan de Furnival. In 1446 the further title of Earl of Waterford was conferred upon him. George I. created the then Earl of Shrewsbury Marquis of Alton. Alton is now the seat of the Countess of Shrewsbury. The mansion originally stood on the eminence where the Roman Catholic Hospital of St. John now is. It was dismantled by the Parliamentarians, but the extension of the building was continued by the Earl of Shrewsbury, who succeeded to the title in 1827.

The principal or state entrance is on the east side. To the park and grounds there are two entrances, the Quicksall Lodge being on the Uttoxeter road, about a quarter of a mile from Ellastone, and leading to the Earl's Drive, three miles long, the prettiest approach to the house.

The other Lodge is close to Alton station: it was designed by Pugin. Near the entrance to the Gardens is the Choragic Temple, designed from the Choragic monument of Lysicrates at Athens. The Grand Conservatories are very elaborate and are 300 feet long. The Armoury—a fine Gothic apartment 120 feet long—contains on its north side a series of stained-glass windows with the portrait and armorial bearings of William the Conqueror, Donald King of Scotland, 1093, and of the Raby and De Verdun families. The Earl's banner as Lord High Steward of Ireland is also in this room. The Octagon or Saloon is partly designed from the Chapter House of Wells Cathedral. It has a central pier of 16 shafts, and on the south a Perpendicular window. The stained-glass window on the west side represents Edward the Black Prince. The Talbot Gallery contains shields of arms, emblazoned with the names of their bearers. In the West Library are a number of mottoes. The State Boudoir, an octagonal room, has a finely decorated Gothic ceiling. The State Bedroom contains all gilt furniture. The Poets' Bay, at the N.W. corner of the North Library in the Tower, has an elaborately decorated ceiling. The ceiling in the Music Room has flamboyant tracery; also that in the Drawing Room. The Chapel contains the finest stained glass by Willement. In the vestibule of the conservatory is the motto "The speech of flowers exceeds all flowers of speech." Ina's Rock, three-quarters of a mile from the Towers on the "Rock Walk," has obtained its name from the story that near here Ceolred and Ina, kings of Mercia and Wessex, fought a great battle, while the latter also held a parliament here. The nearest station is Alton, near Uttoxeter, the entrance lodge being only a little distance away.

ARUNDEL CASTLE, SUSSEX.

The imposing seat of the Duke of Norfolk occupies a commanding position immediately overlooking the town of Arundel and, further beyond, the coastal plain of Sussex. Its history dates back as far as the reign of King Alfred the Great, the manor of Arundel having, it is stated, been given by Alfred to his nephew Æthelm. At the Norman Conquest the Castle was given by William to his relative Roger de Montgomery, who was created Earl of Arundel and Shrewsbury. Later on it passed to the Albini family and from them to the Fitzalans (Lord Maltravers and Earl of Arundel), and to the Howards (Duke of Norfolk). In 1097 William Rufus, on his return from Normandy, celebrated Easter at the castle; in 1102 it was captured by Henry I.; and in 1302 Edward I. occupied it for a time. During the Civil War it fell into the hands of the Parliamentarians, was retaken by the Royalists, but a little later was again captured by the Parliamentarians. The modern restorations to the castle are in the Gothic style. The walls are 8 to 10 feet thick. The circular Keep, which is supposed to have been built by Alfred the Great and to have been recased in Norman times, stands some 70 feet above the fosse surrounding it, and its walls are about 10 feet thick. The Park, some 1,245 acres in extent, contains a large number of deer. It is finely wooded and possesses some very picturesque dales. Over the doorway of the Grand Entrance are the arms of the Howards. Over the Inner Gateway is the chamber supposed to have been the sleeping place of the Empress Matilda. The Great Drawing Room contains a large number of family portraits; and in the Dining Room is a large stained-glass window of the meeting of King Solomon and the Queen of Sheba, the heads being portraits of the 12th Duke and Duchess of Norfolk. The Alfred Saloon, next to the Great Library, has in the front wall a bas-relief which represents Alfred the Great instituting trial by jury. In other rooms there are some valuable pictures and statues, and drawings by Prout, Hunt, David Cox, and Copley Fielding. In the Baron's Hall are 13 fine stained-glass windows, including one by Backler of the signing of Magna Carta by King John. The Chapel is on the right of the entrance to the grand quadrangle. Admission to the Park daily, and to the Keep and Dairy on Mondays and Fridays from 12.0 to 4.0 p.m. by ticket obtainable at the Norfolk Hotel, High Street. Entrance at the top of the High Street. The Castle is situated about a mile from Arundel station.

ASHRIDGE, HERTS.

The seat of the Earl of Brownlow is a battlemented mansion situated 3 miles from Berkhamsted and 5 from Hemel Hempstead, on the borders of Herts and Bucks, in the former county. The Hall is surrounded by armorial bearings, which include those of Henry VII. The Drawing Room is richly furnished and decorated. On the first landing of the Grand Staircase is a statue in Malta stone of Edward IV., done by Westmacott. The Staircase Hall contains a painting of the Battle of Waterloo and a portrait of Countess Brownlow by Lord Leighton: while in the Library are portraits of the Egerton family, including one of Lady Alice Egerton—granddaughter of Lord Chancellor Ellesmere, for whom the character of the Lady in Milton's "Mask of Comus" was written, and who performed the part. The Dining Room has rich oak panelling and gold mouldings; and over the mantelpiece is a picture of the entertainment given by the Corporation of the City of London to the Allied Powers on 18th June, 1814. A copy of Galileo's lamp in fine oak carving is suspended from the centre of the ceiling. In the Sitting Room is a carved mantelpiece by Grinling Gibbons. The Chapel is considered the masterpiece of James Wyatt. On the Terrace is a statue in Malta stone of Queen Elizabeth by Westmacott. The Greenhouse has divisions similar to the nave and aisles of a church. The house is situated about 3 miles from both Tring and Berkhamsted stations.

AUDLEY END, ESSEX.

Sir Thomas Audley, the founder of Audley, was Speaker of the House of Commons in the reign of Henry VIII. The house, now the seat of Lord Braybrooke, was built by Howard, Earl of Suffolk. In 1721, on the advice of Sir John Vanbrugh, part of it was demolished, the Inner Court only now remaining as it was. In 1747 the east wing was pulled down. The building was restored and repaired at great expense by the first Lord Braybrooke. It is a most elaborate Jacobean mansion. The architecture has been attributed to Bernard Jansen and to John Thorpe, but it is evidently the work of the latter. Among the interesting features may be mentioned some rare specimens of china; the chair of Alexander Pope; and the carved oak head of Cromwell's bed which has been utilised to decorate a chimneypiece. The Hall has a very beautiful ceiling. In the grounds is the Temple of Concord, built, it is stated, to commemorate the recovery of George III. The house is situated 1 mile from Saffron Walden.

BELVOIR CASTLE, LEICESTERSHIRE.

At the Norman Conquest the estates were given to Robert de Todeni or Belvidir, who had a castle built here. His son took the surname of De Albini. Subsequently the estate passed by marriage to Robert de Ros, who died in 1285. On the death of Lord Ros in 1508 it was transferred to his sister, who married Sir Robert Manners. In the reign of Henry VIII. Sir Thomas Manners was created Earl of Rutland, a title which previously had only been borne by the Royal Family. During the Civil War Belvoir was captured by the Parliamentarians. The present building was erected in the early part of the 19th century on the Norman foundations. Over the doors of the Grand Entrance are the armorial bearings of the family. In the Great Hall is a collection of arms and armour. The Grand Staircase ceiling has richly groined vaulting; the walls are hung with portraits of the Earls of Rutland with their armorial bearings in the archways. The Muniment Room is one of the most interesting apartments. It contains numerous deeds and MSS., the former dating from the 12th century. The Regent's Gallery—so called because it was fitted up for the Regent, afterwards George IV., when he visited the Castle in 1813—is one of the chief features. It contains a bust of George IV., by Nollekens, and sculptures of Cromwell, William III., George II., Pitt and others. The Gobelin tapestry on the walls represents scenes from the story of Don Quixote from Coypel's design. There are also portraits and paintings by Reynolds, Hoppner, Lely, &c. The Grand Corridor or Ball Room is of Gothic design copied from Lincoln Cathedral. It has a groined ceiling and arcaded walls. The Picture Gallery contains some 200 pictures by well-known masters. The Chapel has a canopied reredos containing one of Murillo's finest works, "The Holy Family." It is valued at 4,000 guineas. The Grounds are beautifully laid out, the Statue Garden being one of the most remarkable features. Both the principal apartments and the grounds are open to the public. The Castle is 8 miles from Grantham and 4 from Bottesford, the nearest station.

BLENHEIM PALACE, OXON.

Blenheim was a residence of King Alfred the Great. The Palace was rebuilt by Henry I., who enclosed the park, 12 m. round—the first one enclosed in England. With Henry II. it was a favourite residence. Considerable additions to the building were made by Henry VIII. The manor continued in the hands of the Crown until the reign of Queen Anne, who in 1705 gave it to John Churchill, the great Duke of Marlborough and his heirs for ever, the terms of the grant being that the Duke or his successors should present to the reigning sovereign a standard of France on the 13th August, being the anniversary of the famous victory which he gained over the French and Bavarians at Blenheim on the Danube. In accordance, a flag with three fleur-de-lis is presented every year and deposited in the Guard Room of Windsor Castle. The present structure, 850 ft. long, was designed by Vanbrugh and is considered one of his masterpieces. Its cost was £300,000. It is built of freestone, and includes a central block having wings connected by colonnades. In the centre is a fine portico with six Corinthian pillars. The approach through the triumphal arch at Woodstock is a very fine one. The arch was built by Sarah, first Duchess of Marlborough, and is after the Corinthian order. The Column of Victory in front of the palace is a monumental Doric pillar 130 ft. high surmounted by a statue of the Duke. The Great Hall has Corinthian columns supporting the ceiling, which is painted with a representation of Victory by Sir James Thornhill. It contains some fine antique and modern statues, a clock by Des Granges, and paintings by old masters. The Grand Cabinet—a splendid apartment—includes pictures by Vandyck, Rubens, Kneller, Carlo Dolci, and others. The Large Drawing Room—now used as a Billiard Room—has a fine alto-relievo over the chimney-piece representing the marriage of Cupid and Psyche. The walls are hung with tapestry. The Saloon has an oval ceiling painted by La Guerre. In the State Drawing Room are paintings by Ricci and others and tapestry illustrating the military achievements of the Duke. The Library contains busts of Charles Spencer, Duke of Marlborough, and Charles, Earl of Sutherland, by Rysbrach, and also a statue of Queen Anne by Rysbrach which cost 5,000 guineas. On the walls are portraits by Sir Godfrey Kneller. The original vote of thanks to the Duke from the House of Lords is still preserved in the Palace. Other papers include a valuable collection of MSS., Royal charters, Hare's MS. Journal of the Duke's campaigns, and the correspondence of Queen Anne with the Duchess. The Chapel contains a splendid marble monument, erected 1733, in memory of the Duke and his two sons. In the vault are the remains of the Duke. The Gardens cover over 100 acres, and there is a lake 130 acres in extent, in the centre of which is a very fine bridge. At the north end of the bridge is a clump of beech trees, which now occupy the site of the old palace of Woodstock in which Queen Elizabeth was once a prisoner. The Rock Gardens contain some rare Alpine plants. In the gardens are two temples dedicated to Diana and Hygeia, the former in the Ionic and the latter in the Corinthian order. The palace and gardens are open on Tuesdays and Fridays, the former between 12 and 3, and the latter between 12 and 4 from May to September; tickets 1*s.* each. The nearest station, Blenheim and Woodstock, is close by, and is about 8 miles N.W. of Oxford.

BLICKLING HALL, NORFOLK.

About 1368 the manor was held by the Dagworths, passing in 1431 into the possesstion of Sir Thomas Erpingham. It subsequently came into the possession of Sir John Fastolf; Sir Geoffrey Boleyn (Lord Mayor of London 1457); Sir Thomas Boleyn (father of Anne Boleyn). It then passed to the Clere family, and in 1606 was sold to Sir Henry Hobart. In 1778 Sir John Hobart was created Baron Hobart of Blickling, and in 1746 Earl of Buckingham. The mansion, in the Jacobean style, was rebuilt in 1620 by Sir John Hobart, and is chiefly in red brick. The Marquess of Lothian is the present owner. On the Hall door is the date "Ano Di. 1620." The Library, which has a heavy plaster ceiling with emblematical figures, contains over 12,000 volumes and includes rare books and MSS. There are numerous family portraits in the house—two by Gainsborough. Some fine old tapestry may be seen, one specimen representing Peter the Great on horseback, presented by the Empress Catherine of Russia to the second Earl of Buckingham. There are also oak statues of Anne Boleyn and Queen Elizabeth. The Park and Gardens cover 600 acres. In the former, stocked with deer, is a pyramidal mausoleum and a fine crescent-shaped lake about a mile long. The house is about 1 mile from Aylsham, the nearest station.

BOWOOD PARK, WILTS.

The mansion consists of three portions built at different times. The chief part was erected by John, Earl of Shelburne, who in 1751, as the Hon. John Fitzmaurice, inherited the estates from his maternal uncle Henry Petty, Earl of Shelburne. In 1784 the 2nd Earl was created Marquis of Lansdowne. He added a long wing to the mansion, the elevation being in imitation of Diocletian's Palace at Spalatro. This wing forms the south side of the two quadrangular courts. The principal front faces south, and has a fine portico with 10 Doric columns. The entrance hall has a classic arch. The house contains pictures by some of the most famous Italian, French, English, Spanish and Flemish painters, including Reynolds' celebrated "Strawberry Girl." In the Saloon is a splendid Rembrandt. Amongst other interesting pictures (too numerous to specify in detail) may be mentioned a fine statuary group of Hagar and Ishmael by Westmacott. The Park extends for nearly 1000 acres; James I. hunted deer in it. In front of the house is a fine lake of 30 acres. The Gardens are laid out in two terraces on the south front. When the estate was disafforested, it was divided between Lord Audley and a member of the old Devonshire family of Carey. It was purchased by Lord Lansdowne's ancestors from the creditors of Sir Orlando Bridgeman. The house is situated about 2 miles from Calne, the nearest station.

BRADFIELD, DEVON.

The Walronds, in the person of Richard Walrond, owned Bradfield prior to Henry III.'s reign. The present owner is Lord Waleran (formerly Sir William Hood Walrond), who has let the house to Mr. A. Barclay Walker. The building is in the Tudor and Jacobean styles, the oldest parts dating back to the beginning of the 16th century. The interior is very elaborate, and is richly decorated with carvings. The Hall, the oldest part of the building, is very beautiful, and has a carved timber roof, with hammer beams and carved angels. At the south end is the Minstrels' Gallery. The Drawing Room is elaborately panelled and exquisitely decorated with carving, &c. The chimney-piece is of Elizabethan or Jacobean work. The paintings include portraits of members of the family. The Gardens are exceedingly well laid out. The lake is enclosed with a very fine box hedge, which produces an admirable effect. Bradfield is situated on the left bank of the Culm, midway between Uffculme and Cullompton.

BROUGHTON CASTLE, OXON.

Lord Saye and Sele is the owner of this fine Elizabethan mansion, but it is at present tenanted by Lord Algernon Gordon-Lennox. The oldest parts of the building are preserved almost in their original state. The De Broughtons in 1301-7 made some additions, but the chief part was erected in 1407 by the Wykehams, and additions were made in 1554 by the Wykeham-Fiennes, the ancestors of the present owner. The chief feature is the beautiful groined passage, which leads to the chapel and also to the principal staircase. The Hall, which contains suits of armour, has 15 pendants from the ceiling. The Long Gallery or Corridor is hung with historical portraits. Over the Gallery and under the roof is a space which was used as barracks for soldiers prior to the battle of Edgehill, 1642. It was in the Council Room that Hampden, Pym, Oliver St. John, Sir Harry Vane the younger, Lord Brooke, the Earl of Bedford and others, met to oppose the policy of Charles I. During the Civil War the Castle was one of the chief centres of the Parliamentarians. It is partly surrounded by a wide moat. The Chapel has a decorated east window. The Castle is situated on the Sorbrook, 2¼ miles south-west of Banbury. Admission on Wednesdays after 3.0 p.m.

BURGHLEY HOUSE, NORTHANTS.

Burghley, Stamford, in the reign of Henry III. was held by Thomas de Burghley. It later on passed to Nicholas de Segrave and to Warine de Lisle, and in 1360 it was in the possession of Robert Wykes, by one of whose descendants it was sold to Richard Cecil, father of Lord Treasurer Burghley. The Cecil family is apparently descended from Robert ap Seistylt or Sitsilt or Seisel, a Welsh chieftain who in 1031 aided Robert Fitzhamon in his conquest of Glamorgan. The present owner of Burghley is the Marquess of Exeter, who is the 13th Baron Burghley. During the Civil War Burghley was taken by the Parliamentarians, and Cromwell, who visited it, was charmed with its magnificence. Queen Elizabeth was fond of visiting it, and James I. stayed here in 1603 and William III. in 1695. It is related that on one occasion when Lord Burghley was dilating on the beauties of the place to Queen Elizabeth, she touched him on the cheek and said, "Ay, my money and your taste have made it a mighty pretty place." In 1842 Queen Victoria and Prince Consort visited Burghley. In the Great Hall is a portrait of the Prince Consort, George I., and George II. The Banque'ing Hall has a very fine bay window and a magnificent carved roof, which is only surpassed by one in Westminster Abbey. Queen Elizabeth's Bedroom is a most interesting room and contains the same furniture that was used when she visited here. In Queen Elizabeth's Dining Room are many paintings and portraits by some of the most famous painters. The George Rooms are set apart for the use of Royalty. The Brown Drawing Room contains some valuable paintings and some fine specimens of Grinling Gibbons' carving. In the Library are some valuable books and MSS., including Lord Treasurer Burghley's own diary. The Chapel contains fine carvings said to be by Gibbons. In the Chapel Room are some excellent paintings chiefly of the Italian School. Altogether in the house there are about 600 paintings. There are also statues by Canova, Thorwaldsen and Bertolini. The mansion was built by the first Lord Burghley, being commenced in 1575 and finished in 1587. It was designed by John Thorpe in the Tudor style and is built of freestone in the form of a parallelogram. The Park, which is 2 miles long, 1 mile wide, and 7 miles in circumference, is in 3 portions—the Upper, Lower and Middle Parks—and covers 1500 acres. In some parts of it the Roman Road of Ermine Street can be traced. The entrance for pedestrians is at Burghley Lane. The house is 1 mile from the Grand Lodge and 2 miles from Stamford station. The Grounds are laid out in the old-fashioned English style of the 15th and 16th centuries.

CASSIOBURY PARK, WATFORD.

Cassiobury is said to have been the residence of the Kings of Mercia. The name is supposed to be derived from Casii, a tribe of the Britons. Near here was fought a battle between Cassivellaunus and the Romans. The Domesday Book records the Abbot of St. Albans as holding Cassion. Watford at this time was unknown, being included in the manor of Cassio. It was made a market town in the reign of Henry I., and at the Dissolution of the Monasteries the manor was divided, Watford being given to Sir Thomas Egerton, baron of Ellesmere, the lordship or manor of Cayshobury being granted to Sir Richard Morrison. He erected a house, which his son completed about 1599. The estate passed to Arthur Capell, who in 1641 was created Baron Capell of Hadham. He was a staunch supporter of Charles I. and suffered execution. From him is descended the present owner, the Earl of Essex. On the restoration of Charles II. the estate was restored to Lord Capell, who was created Viscount Malden and Earl of Essex. He had the house rebuilt in 1680. The present Gothic structure was erected in 1800 from designs by James Wyatt. The Green Drawing Room has some rare paintings including some by Turner, Collins, Callcott, &c. The Oak Room, or Dining Room, contains Landseer's "Catspaw" and pictures by Reynolds, Vandyck, Hoppner, and others. The Saloon has a fine ceiling with a painting by Verrio of allegorical figures. The Gobelin Tapestry Room is the State Chamber occupied by the Dowager Queen Adelaide 1846-8. The Library consists of four rooms—the Great Library, Inner Library, Dramatists' Library, and Small Library. The Small Library contains carvings by Gibbons and relics, viz., a lock of Charles I.'s hair, a piece of the blue garter, now faded grey, worn by Charles I. on the scaffold, a piece of velvet from his coffin and the pall. In a glass case is the handkerchief, stained with blood, with which Lord Coningsby in 1690 staunched the wound of William III. at the Battle of the Boyne. There is also a picture of the battle by A. Cooper. Over the fireplace are portraits of Lord Arthur Capell and the 3rd Earl of Essex, surrounded by some of Gibbons' best carving. The Great Cloister contains family portraits and other paintings, and in other rooms are fine specimens by Rembrandt, Teniers, Cuyp, &c. The Park is 700 acres in extent. The Home Park is separated from the Upper Park by the River Gade, parallel to which runs, for some distance, the Grand Junction Canal. The house is situated about a mile from Watford station, and is tenanted by The Hon. W. R. W. Peel.

CASTLE ASHBY, NORTHANTS.

Castle Ashby was first held, in 1306, by Walter de Langton, Bishop of Coventry and Lichfield. In 1315 it passed to Robert Peveril, and later on to Sir William de la Pole and Edward Grey, created Earl of Kent 1465. It was sold subsequently to Sir William Compton, the ancestor of the present owner, the Marquis of Northampton. Sir William's grandson built the present house, which was begun in 1583 and finished in 1624. The style of architecture is Elizabethan, the subsequent addition of the south front being designed by Inigo Jones. The building is quadrangular in form with two lofty octagonal towers. The interior is on a magnificent scale. There is some fine carving in the Hall and Stairway, and among other features in the Hall are some fine pictures, including a portrait of the 8th Earl of Northampton, and furniture showing examples of Stuart work. The Long Gallery is a fine apartment with classic Corinthian columns. In the Saloon, the chimney-piece has some beautiful carving of Queen Elizabeth's period. Among the paintings is a portrait of the Duke of Buckingham after his murder. The Park is 645 acres in extent and very picturesque. The Grounds are laid out in a series of terraces. The house is approached by four entrances, that from the Yardley Hastings side leading through a fine avenue of trees nearly 4 miles long. It is situated 5 miles from Wellingborough, on the south bank of the Nene, the nearest station being Cogenhoe, 1½ miles distant. Admission is granted when the family is not in residence.

CASTLE HOWARD, YORKSHIRE.

This mansion, designed by Sir John Vanbrugh, is considered one of the finest Renaissance buildings in England, and has a dome over the centre. It ranks with Blenheim, another notable work of Vanbrugh's. An avenue 4 miles long leads to the house, and the ornamental grounds are of vast extent. The interior is decorated with Corinthian columns. There is a most valuable and extensive collection of art treasures, and the paintings include the finest examples, some of them having once been in the Orleans gallery. They were acquired at the time of the French Revolution, and are mostly hung in the rooms off the Garden Hall, viz., the Dining Room, the Great Drawing Room, Tapestry Room, and Billiard Room. In the Tapestry Room and the Drawing Room are designs by Rubens. They include some fine specimens by Canaletto: "Adoration of the Kings," by Mabuse; "The Three Marys," by Annibale Caracci; there are also examples by Ludovico and Agostino Caracci, Canaletto, Salvator Rosa, Tintoretto, Titian, Zucchero, Holbein, Vandyck, Sir J. Reynolds and Lely. In the Antique Gallery are some rare specimens of Norman, Egyptian and Greek antiquities. The Museum contains an altar which is said to have stood in the Temple of Apollo at Delphi. In the Great Hall are sculptures of Marcus Aurelius, Hadrian, and others, and on the ceilings and walls are allegorical paintings. The Gold or State Bedroom is hung with Brussels tapestry after Teniers. One of Canaletto's best pictures is hung in Lady Carlisle's Sitting Room. The Chapel is a fine example in the Renaissance style with Corinthian columns. The Castle is situated about 5 miles east of Malton, and is 4 miles from Castle Howard station. The Earl of Carlisle has another seat—Naworth Castle, in Cumberland.

CHATSWORTH HOUSE, DERBYSHIRE.

Chatsworth, "The Palace of the Peak," is the Chetesuorde recorded in the Domesday Book, and originally was no doubt Chetelsuorde, from Chetel, one of its Saxon owners. At Domesday it belonged to the Crown, and was held by William Peverel. The Leche family subsequently came into possession of it, one member being surgeon to Edward III. In Edward VI.'s reign the family became extinct, the last member, Francis Leche, selling it to one named Agard, who shortly resold it to Sir William Cavendish, the husband of "Bess of Hardwick," who was a sister of Francis Leche's wife and daughter of John Hardwick of Hardwick. The mansion is a stately structure in the Renaissance style. It was commenced in 1687, and in 1692 Sir Christopher Wren surveyed the building, which was finished about 1766. In 1820 the 6th Duke of Devonshire commenced the erection of the north wing from designs by Sir Jeffrey Wyatt.

The Park is of great extent and exceedingly picturesque, the river Derwent flowing through it. There are four entrances, those at Edensor and Edensor Mill being for the use of the public. The Grounds exhibit a wealth of beauty and design, and include an orangery and French garden. The chief feature is the great conservatory erected by Sir (then Mr.) Joseph Paxton when gardener to the Duke of Devonshire. There is an imitation willow tree of copper and lead which weeps profusely when the water supply connected to it is laid on. Queen Mary's Bower is near the drive.

The Sub Hall, the first room on entering, contains busts of Homer, Socrates, Jupiter, &c. The Great or Grand Hall has an immense marble table in the centre. On the ceilings and upper walls are remarkable paintings by Laguerre and Verrio. In the Sketch Gallery on the south side is a most extensive collection of original drawings, including examples by the well-known masters. The collection was formed by the 2nd Duke of Devonshire. The State Apartments occupy the whole length of the building. In the State Dressing Room is some exquisite wood carving, of which there is a remarkable specimen in a frame on the wall. It is stated to be Grinling Gibbons' masterpiece and is admitted to be the finest piece of work ever executed. Whether it is actually the work of Gibbons is, however, not absolutely certain. In the State Music Room is a fiddle painted on the door, and so skilfully has it been executed that it appears to be a real instrument hanging on a peg. The State Dining Room contains elaborate carvings, those over the fireplace being the richest in all the State Rooms. The ceiling is an admirable piece of work by Verrio. There are also marble busts of the Emperor of Russia and prominent politicians. The Grand Drawing Room has a very fine ceiling and contains some valuable full-length portraits. In the Library is one of the rarest and most extensive collections of books and MSS., which include the famous Anglo-Saxon MS. of Caedmon. The smaller room of the Ante-Library is a fine specimen of architecture. It is in the apsidal form, with a dome supported by columns and pilasters with Corinthian capitals. The Sculpture Gallery includes a bust of Napoleon, a statue and bust of Madame Mère, mother of Napoleon, and also a large number of busts of classical subjects. Mary Queen of Scots' Rooms—so called because they occupy the same position as those used by her in the old building—are situated on the east of the mansion, but are not shown to the public. The Gallery of Paintings contains a valuable collection, including Landseer's fine original of "Bolton Abbey." The Chapel contains in the S.W. angle some exquisite decorative work, the carvings being considered the work of Gibbons.

The old mansion was built by "Bess of Hardwick," afterwards Countess of Shrewsbury. It was in 1570 that Mary Queen of Scots was removed here, under her charge, from Tutbury Castle. Lady Arabella Stuart, a granddaughter of "Bess of Hardwick," was born at Chatsworth. A eulogy of the place was written by Hobbes the philosopher, who spent some time here as tutor to the sons of Sir William Cavendish. In 1643 Chatsworth was garrisoned by the Parliamentarians. The nearest station, Rowsley, is 3 miles away, and Bakewell 3½. Chesterfield is 9 miles due east.

CLEVEDON COURT, SOMERSETSHIRE,

was stated by Buckley to be "unquestionably the most valuable relic of Early Domestic architecture in England." It was built in the reign of Edward II., and was restored in the time of the Tudors. Traces exist of a fortification. The south front is in fine preservation, and has tracery windows, picturesque turrets, and ornamented chimney shafts. The entrance porch still retains the original doorways and mouldings. The Great Hall has a richly decorated window, and the screen work, oak panelling, and carved chimney-piece of Tudor origin still remain. The Hall contains armour and family portraits. A newel staircase leads from the south-west angle to the "ladye's bower," which opens into the upper part of the Hall. A fire in 1882 destroyed all the modern portions of the house, but it has been rebuilt. The Grounds are open to the public on Thursdays. The nearest station is Clevedon. The present owner is Sir E. H. Elton, Bart.

CLUMBER, NOTTS.

The family of Pelham, with that of Clinton, is represented by the Duke of Newcastle, the owner of Clumber. The name of Pelham was derived from the manor of that name in Hertfordshire, the manor belonging to Walter de Pelham, in the reign of Edward I. The Pleasure Grounds are very extensive and well laid out, the chief feature being a very fine lake some 90 acres in extent. The terrace extends along the lake, and is adorned with statuary, vases, and flower beds. In the Park are some of the finest cedars in England. The mansion was built in 1770, additions being subsequently carried out. The Entrance Hall contains a statue of Napoleon, and busts of the Duke of Newcastle, Sir Robert Peel, Cromwell, and others. The Library, which is probably the finest room, has a fine decorated geometric ceiling. It contains a collection of rare old books, and statues of Euphrosyne, Thetis, and Achilles. There are some fine old paintings in the State Dining Room; portraits of the fourth Duke of Devonshire and pictures by Caracci, Vandyck, &c., in the Principal Drawing Room; and in the Crimson Drawing Room pictures by Rembrandt, Rubens, Poussin, Canaletto, &c. On the Grand Staircase are a number of paintings, including portraits of Pitt, Scott, Campbell, Thomson, George II., Prince Rupert, Dante, Cowley, and examples by Snyders, Van Oss, Lely, &c. Other paintings in the house include Gainsborough's "The Beggar Boys," Carlo Dolce's "The Marriage of St. Katherine," and examples by Vandyck, Teniers, Titian, Rembrandt, Hogarth, Reynolds and Holbein. There are four interesting Roman sepulchral actors in one of the other rooms. Clumber is situated on the borders of Sherwood Forest, 4 miles east of Welbeck Abbey, and the same distance from Worksop, the nearest station. From the entrance of the Park to the house the distance is a little over a mile.

COBHAM HALL, KENT.

The seat of the Earl of Darnley (Baron Clifton) is situated between Gravesend and Rochester, 4 miles south-east of the former town. The largest part of the mansion was erected by Lord Cobham in Queen Elizabeth's reign, important alterations being subsequently made by the 4th Earl of Lennox, who entertained Charles I. here. From Henry de Cobham, in King John's reign, the estate passed through the hands of Sir John Oldcastle, and Sir William Broke, whose son Henry, Lord Cobham, was the last of the Cobhams. He was deprived of the estates on account of his connection with the design of Sir Walter Raleigh. The conviction of Raleigh was chiefly the work of Cobham, who died in 1619 in great poverty. The estate afterwards passed to Ludovick Stuart, Duke of Lennox; to the O'Briens of Thomond; to Sir Joseph Williamson, who was created Lord Clifton, and later Lord Clarendon; and to John Bligh, created Lord Clifton and in 1725 Earl of Darnley.

In the entrance passage is a fine Egyptian red granite bath. In the vaulting are the arms of the Cobhams with date 1587. The Hall, which exhibits excellent remains of Tudor architecture, contains a gallery of pictures of great value. The Library contains portraits of eminent literary men. In the Music Room, which is elegantly decorated, and having walls of white marble, is a picture of Lords John and Bernard Stuart by Vandyck. The ceiling was designed by Inigo Jones. The Great Dining Hall contains a portrait of Charles I., and in the Portrait Gallery are some very interesting portraits of kings, statesmen, &c. The Picture Gallery, which is the most interesting room, has a fine carved chimneypiece. Among the portraits are Inigo Jones by Vandyck, Shakespeare, Hobbes, Locke, Swift, Dryden, and Pope, and productions of Italian masters — Guido, Titian, Raphael, Rubens, Salvator Rosa, Spagnoletto, Giorgione, Guercino, N. Poussin, P. Veronese. There are some fine Sèvres, Chelsea, Oriental china and tapestry carpets, and on the tables is a series of perfect vases from Herculaneum. In a room adjoining the west end, Queen Elizabeth is said to have slept. Her arms, with date 1599, are in the centre of the ceiling.

The centre of the house was built by Inigo Jones and has a façade with Corinthian pilasters. The two wings are in the Tudor style. The Gilt Hall has been described as the finest room in England.

The Park, 1800 acres in extent, is well stocked with deer and contains trees of all varieties, some of enormous proportions.

In Cobham Church, on the floor of the chancel, are the famous Cobham brasses, some of the most perfect in the Kingdom.

The nearest stations are Sole Street (2 miles), Cuxton (2½ miles), and Strood (3 miles). Admission on Fridays from 11—4. Tickets, 1*s.*, can be obtained from Mr. Snoad, Cobham; Mr. Wildish, Rochester, and Mr. Caddell, Gravesend.

COMPTON WYNYATES, WARWICKSHIRE.

Since the reign of Edward I. Compton Wynyates has been in the possession of the Compton family. Sir Henry Compton was created Baron Compton in 1572, his successor being raised to the Earldom of Northampton 1618. The 9th Earl was created Marquess of Northampton. Compton was known as Contone in the time of Domesday. The house was built by Sir William Compton in the reign of Henry VIII. Above the principal entrance is a sundial. The Hall, a splendid apartment, ascends the whole height of the house. It has an open-timbered roof, a large bay window and a screen. The ceiling in the Drawing Room dates from the time of Queen Elizabeth. The walls and chimney-piece are decorated with carvings from Canonbury Tower, Islington, London. The public are admitted on Wednesdays and Saturdays. The house is 6 miles from Kineton station, 5½ from Shipston-on-Stour, and 9 from Banbury.

COTEHELE HOUSE, CORNWALL.

This fine example of a Tudor fortified mansion —"the pride of the River Tamar"—dates from the reign of Henry VII. It is a seat of the Earl of Mount Edgcumbe, the Dowager Countess now residing here. The house was built by Sir Richard Edgcumbe, and in plan and also in some of its details bears a resemblence to Haddon Hall.

In the Hall is the armour of Sir Richard, as well as helmets, battle axes, and other warlike implements. The Banqueting Hall has a fine timber roof. Some fine tapestry is to be seen in the Dining Room. The anteroom adjoining is very interesting. Among other things it contains tapestry representing the Sciences; also old earthenware. All the Bedrooms are hung with fine specimens of tapestry, and there is some fine carved furniture.

Amongst numerous other features are the brass trumpets which Sir Richard Edgcumbe brought back from Ireland, where he had been sent by Henry VII. to administer the oath of allegiance of the chiefs.

The chapel is situated in the corner of the courtyard. In the Grounds is a chapel which was built by Sir Richard in memory of his narrow escape when pursued by the followers of Richard III. He was an ardent Lancastrian and supporter of the Earl of Richmond before his accession as Henry VII. Charles I. once slept in the mansion.

The nearest station is Bere Alston (L. & S.W.R.), from which it is about 1½ miles distant. Another means of reaching it is by steamer from Plymouth to Calstock, a delightful trip through charming scenery. The house is one mile to the west of Calstock. Admission is only by order from the Earl of Mount Edgcumbe, Manor Office, Emma Place, Stonehouse.

DUNSTER CASTLE, SOMERSETSHIRE.

Dunster was granted by William the Conqueror to William de Mohun, or de Moion, from whose descendants the ancestors of the present owner—G. F. Luttrell, Esq.—bought it in 1376. The original receipt for the purchase money is still preserved in a case in the Hall.

During the Civil War the place was held for the Parliament in 1643, but was surrendered to the Royalists. In 1646, however, it was again taken by the Parliamentarians after a siege by Blake. The Castle was visited by Prince Charles, and his bedroom is still shown. The south front is over 100 years old, while the Gatehouse dates from the reign of Henry V. Extensive additions were made in 1869. Over the entrance archway are the arms of the Luttrells. In the Entrance Hall are some valuable paintings, including a portrait of Cromwell by Vandyck. In the Grand Staircase are some massive carved rails with hunting scenes depicted. The upper part of the Hall is hung with imitation tapestry, the subjects being scenes from the life of Antony and Cleopatra. The Drawing Room contains a fine Florentine ivory cabinet, and fine specimens of intarsia work. The Park is 500 acres in extent, and contains the remains of British and Roman camps. The Grounds are open on Monday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Saturday, from 10 to 5, charge 6*d*.; 1*s*. on Mondays. Tickets from the Luttrell Arms Hotel. The Castle is situated a mile from Dunster station, near Minehead.

DYRHAM PARK, HERTS.

The estate has been in the possession of the Trotter family since 1798, Colonel Trotter being the present owner. It was formerly called Durhams Park, after John Durham, who lived here in the 14th century. The chief entrance is by Dyrham Park Gate, through which General Monk entered London on 29th May, 1666. In the Vestibule—the finest and most spacious room in the house—are paintings by Nasmyth, of Stirling, Perth, and Edinburgh; the Head of a Boy, by Greuze; "The Girl and the Pitcher," by Clark; also some by Vandyck, Canaletto, Ward, Romney, and Sir William Beechey. The Dining Room and Smoking Room contain, among others, paintings by Sir William Beechey. The estate altogether is about 1,000 acres. The nearest station is High Barnet, about 2 miles south.

EATON HALL, CHESHIRE.

The original building was erected at the close of the 17th century from Sir John Vanbrugh's designs. It was rebuilt in 1818 after the Gothic style, the architect being Mr. William Porden, and consisted of a central block with turrets and pinnacles adorning the wings. The second Marquess of Westminster made further alterations in 1846 from Mr. Burn's designs, and in 1870 the late Duke carried out enlargements under the supervision of Mr. Alfred Waterhouse. The present building is a fine Gothic structure of the 13th century style. The Grosvenor Wing really forms a complete house in itself, and it is solely used by the family. The Park—370 acres—contains a lake 11 acres in extent. The Gardens and Conservatories cover about 50 acres. The principal entrance is at Overleigh Lodge on the Grosvenor Road, an avenue 3 miles long, leading to the mansion. On the Wrexham Road is another entrance giving access to the Belgrave Drive, 2 miles in length. In front of the house is a fine equestrian statue of Hugh de Abrincis, surnamed "Lupus," first Palatine Earl of Chester, who died 1101. It is designed by G. F. Watts. The Central Hall has a fine alabaster doorway. The Library contains five historical pictures by Benjamin West. In the Drawing Room is some fine panelling of exquisite embroidery, worked at the South Kensington School of Art Needlework; also an excellent chimney-piece, executed at Rome 1868. Pictures illustrating Chaucer's Canterbury Tales, by Stacy Marks, are hung in the Saloon, and in other rooms are paintings by Sir Peter Lely, J. M. W. Turner, Rubens, Hoppner, Snyders, Prout, and Sir John Millais. The Chapel, north-west of the Grosvenor Wing, has 28 bells, cast by Van Aerschodt, of Louvain, which play 35 tunes and 5 peals. The clock has 4 dials. The nave has a lofty groined roof. A screen of alabaster, having square panels filled with very delicately carved foliage, separates the nave from the chancel. The pulpit is supported by columns of Devonshire marble. Close to the mansion is the stud farm. The nearest station is Chester, about 3 miles to the north. The public are admitted from 10-6 daily, June—August. Tickets, 1*s.* to the Hall, 6*d.* to the Gardens.

GOODWOOD HOUSE, SUSSEX.

Goodwood is supposed to have derived its name from Godwin, who held the manor of Strettington. The estate was purchased about 1720 by Parliament and settled on Charles Lennox, 1st Duke of Richmond, and his heirs male in perpetuity. The building is of two storeys, and consists of a central block with wings which recede at an angle of 45 degrees. The façade has an Ionic porch surmounted with a Doric colonnade. The collection of pictures and sculpture includes examples by Vandyck, Sir Peter Lely, Sir Godfrey Kneller, Reynolds, Gainsborough, Romney, Nollekens, and others. There is a remarkable picture of "The Cenotaph of Lord Darnley," painted 1567-8, and brought here from the Château d'Aubigny; and relics are preserved of Charles I., Charles II., and the first Duke of Wellington. The Drawing Room, hung with fine Gobelin tapestry illustrating Don Quixote, contains in a glass case the silver breakfast plate used by Napoleon on the day of Waterloo at La Ferme du Caillou. The Park, some 2,000 acres in extent, contains some fine cedar, cypress, and chestnut trees, some of the cedars being 25 ft. in circumference. In the Grounds is a modern temple, containing a slab of gray Purbeck marble, which was found at Chichester in 1731. It bears a mutilated inscription recording the dedication of a temple to Neptune and Minerva by the College of Handicraftsmen in the reign of Tiberius (A.D. 14). Singleton and Drayton are the nearest stations, each being about 3 miles away. Chichester is about 3½ miles to the south-west. The house is open on Mondays, Thursdays, and Saturdays at 2.0, 3.0, and 4.0 o'clock.

GORHAMBURY, HERTS.

The 3rd Viscount Grimston erected the house in 1778, from the designs of Sir Robert Taylor. The front has 10 Corinthian columns. The present owner is the Earl of Verulam. The Entrance Hall, is covered with valuable paintings, including Queen Catherine, Francis Bacon, Charles I., Charles II., and George I, on horseback, by Sir Godfrey Kneller. There is a portrait of Lord Bacon by Vansomer in the Dining Room, while the Library contains one of William Pitt by Hoppner, and of Sir Edward Grimston, done by Petrus Christus in Burgundy, 1446. In the Ball Room is a portrait of Queen Elizabeth, presented by her to Sir Nicholas Bacon, Lord Keeper; and one of the Grimston family, by Reynolds. The ruins of the old mansion are a great attraction to antiquarians, and are very interesting. St. Albans, the nearest station, is 2½ miles to the east.

GROOMBRIDGE PLACE, KENT.

In Saxon times the moated castle of Groombridge was situated here, being in the possession of the Cobhams of Cobham Hall. It passed into the Waller family later on, and to the Packers in the reign of Charles I. The rebuilding of the house was commenced shortly afterwards, and the adoption of the classic style was due to the persuasion of John Evelyn. The plan of the house is in the form of the letter H. It is built of brick and is surrounded by a deep moat. The Duke of Orleans was at one time a captive here, and the arms of France may be seen in the panelling. The Library contains some fine carved oak panelling. The house is situated about 4 miles west of Tunbridge Wells and half a mile from Groombridge station. Special leave must be obtained from the owners, the Misses Saint, to visit the place.

THE GROVE, WATFORD.

The seat of the Earl of Clarendon—5th Earl, and late Lord Chamberlain of the Household. The Entrance Hall contains some valuable pictures, and also a fine reproduction in Gobelin tapestry of Raphael's cartoon of "The Miraculous Draught of Fishes"—presented to Lord Clarendon in 1856 by Napoleon III. In the Dining Room are some valuable paintings, some by Vandyck. The Drawing Room also contains some by Vandyck, as well as a portrait of Queen Henrietta Maria. There are some portraits of Queen Anne, James II., and others in the Library, and in the Corridor some fine old paintings, including Queen Anne, the Duke of Monmouth, the Duke of Buckingham, the Duke of Saxony, and others. The Dome contains specimens of old china. The house is situated about 3 miles north-west of Watford.

HADDON HALL, DERBYSHIRE.

This fine mansion, now uninhabited, has a charming environment, situated as it is on the eastern bank of the picturesque Wye in the midst of some of the finest scenery of the Peak district. Its first owner was apparently Henry de Ferrars, who held it in 1086. In the latter part of the 12th century it passed into the Vernon family by the marriage of one of the daughters of William de Avenell, Lord of Haddon. The name of Vernon is derived from the family residence in Normandy—the Châtellenie of Vernon. Dorothy Vernon, whose name is inseparably associated with Haddon Hall, was the younger daughter of Sir George Vernon, known as King of the Peak by reason of his magnificent style of living, and who died 1567. She married Sir John Manners, the second son of the 1st Earl of Rutland, eloping with him one evening while festivities were going on, and being married next morning in Leicestershire. She died 1584, and her husband in 1611, and both are buried in Bakewell church. The Rutland family resided at Haddon until the end of the 18th century, when they left it for Belvoir Castle. In the angle of the first courtyard over the inner archway may be noticed the remarkable splaying and chamfering of the building. The gateway at the entrance is in the Gothic style, and some other portions of the house are in Norman.

The Banqueting Hall has a Minstrels' Gallery on two sides of it and contains a beautifully panelled screen. The old oak table is one of the finest of its kind. There are also oil paintings of Martin Middelton of Hazelbadge. The Dining Room has an elaborately decorated ceiling, and over the centre of the fireplace are the Royal Arms of England (quarterly France and England). The Drawing Room fireplace has a most curious grate. The State Bedroom has its walls hung with Gobelin tapestry, illustrating Æsop's Fables. George IV., when Prince Regent, is stated to have been the last person to sleep in the State Bed, viz., on the occasion when he visited Belvoir Castle. It is said that Count Rumford conceived his plan of preventing chimneys smoking from the fire grate in the Earl's Bedroom. The Chapel has Norman pillars and arches in the nave, although they have been altered from their original form. The font is Norman, and the east window in the Perpendicular style. At the west end is a fine vestment chest with carved arms. At the eastern end of the house is Dorothy Vernon's Walk and the Winter Garden. Below the Terrace—a fine walk—are the Upper Garden and the Lower Garden. The nearest station is Bakewell, 2 miles distant. The public are admitted up to 4.0 p.m.

HAMPTON COURT PALACE.

This historic Royal residence—from the time of Henry VIII. to the reign of George II.—is situated on the north bank of the Thames, and was built by Cardinal Wolsey, upon whose fall it was acquired by Henry VIII. This monarch made additions to it, and it was here that he married Catherine Parr and resided with Anne Boleyn. Edward VI. too, was born here. Queen Elizabeth often used it as a residence, as did also Cromwell, Charles II., and James II.; and the famous Hampton Court Conference was held here by James I.

Subsequent additions to the Palace were made by William III. from designs by Wren. The west front is mostly the work of Wolsey, while the classic façade of the east front is Wren's work.

Altogether the area of the Palace and grounds is 1,900 acres, the building covering 8 acres and containing 1,000 rooms. There are many fine paintings and portraits. The astronomical clock, which is of great interest, dates from 1540. The Great Hall, which was built by Henry VIII., contains some valuable tapestry. The State Rooms contain some beautiful old arras-work of great value. On the walls are some fine paintings, including portraits by Rembrandt, Holbein, Titian, Lely, Romano, Kneller, Correggio, &c. Beside the Chapel is the Haunted Gallery, so called because it is supposed that the ghost of Catherine Howard is heard shrieking here. The Gardens were laid out by William III. in the Dutch style. Their chief attractions are the Maze and the Great Vine. The latter is about 150 years old, and is the largest in the world. It sometimes yields, even now, 2,500 bunches in a season. The Maze is on the north side, and was planted in William III.'s reign. The Pond Garden is laid out in the Tudor style of gardening. Admission—from 10 to sunset, except Fridays, and on Sundays at 2. The Gardens are open at noon on Sunday, and are closed daily, except Friday, at sunset. The Palace is 15 miles from London, and is reached from Waterloo Station to Hampton Court Station, or by way of the Central London Railway to Shepherd's Bush and thence by electric car.

HARDWICK HALL, DERBYSHIRE.

Robert de Gernon, who came over with William the Conqueror, is the ancestor of the Cavendish family, from whom Hardwick's present owner, the Duke of Devonshire, is descended. The title was taken from the manor of Cavendish in Suffolk. Sir William Cavendish, son of the famous "Bess of Hardwick," who married Sir William Cavendish and became later Countess of Shrewsbury, was created Earl of Devonshire by James I. The house was built by "Bess of Hardwick," being commenced in 1590 and finished about 1597. On account of its numerous windows the designation "Hardwick Hall, more glass than wall," has been given to it. Thomas Hobbes, the philosopher, who was tutor to the sons of Sir William Cavendish, spent 20 years of his life here. Through the entrance gateway are some excellently laid out flower beds, two of great size in the shape of the letters E. and S.—the initials of Elizabeth, Countess of Shrewsbury. In the Great Hall is a full length statue of Mary Queen of Scots by Westmacott, and on the wall above is a large cartoon of Henry VIII. Above the fireplace are the arms of Elizabeth Hardwick. The Drawing Room contains paintings of Arabella Stuart, Henry VII., Henry VIII., Edward VI., &c.; and in the Dining Room are a number of family portraits. In the Minstrels' Gallery, between the Dining and Drawing Rooms, are some fine specimens of needlework by Mary Queen of Scots. The Grand Staircase is hung with tapestry. In the State Room, over the fireplace, are the arms and supporters of Queen Elizabeth; also portraits of Queen Elizabeth, Queen Mary, and Arabella Stuart. In Mary Queen of Scots' Room is the furniture placed here by the Countess of Shrewsbury, who, with her husband, had charge of Mary Queen of Scots for so long (1568-1584). The bed bears the monogram of the ill-fated Queen, worked by herself. It is not clear whether she ever visited Hardwick. The Picture Gallery occupies the length of the house. There is a fine collection of pictures, including original portraits of Queen Elizabeth, Mary Queen of Scots, Arabella Stuart, the 7th Earl of Derby, Queen Mary, Catherine of Arragon, Lady Jane Seymour, William III., George III., and others. Some of the tapestry here is as early as 1478. The Duke's Bedroom, in which the late Duke died, is hung with tapestry. The Dressing Room adjoining has its walls covered with the finest silk needlework tapestry representing scriptural subjects. Among other many interesting details is the bed used by Mary Queen of Scots, and which is covered with needlework by her own hands. Over the door of the room are the Royal Arms of Scotland with date 1599. The Chapel walls are hung with painted tapestry, and there is also a fine specimen on the ceiling. The plaster reliefs here and in the house are dated 1588. Hardwick is situated in the parish of Hault Hucknall, midway between Chesterfield and Mansfield, 9 miles from the former place, the nearest station being Rowthorn and Hardwick, 2 miles away.

HATFIELD HOUSE, HERTS.

This famous Jacobean mansion was built 1605-1611 by Sir Robert Cecil, created 1st Earl of Salisbury. The manor was exchanged by James I. for the manor of Theobalds. It originally belonged to the Saxon kings until in the reign of Edgar it was given to the monastery of St. Etheldreda at Ely, which in 1108 was constituted a bishopric. It was a palace of the Bishop of Ely, and was later used as a Royal residence occasionally. William de Hatfield, second son of Edward III., was born here. It is said that here Elizabeth received the news of the death of Queen Mary. Sir William Cecil was adviser to Queen Elizabeth before her accession, and became her Secretary of State. Prince Edward (Edward VI.) also resided here some time. The house is in the shape of the letter H, the centre being a fine example of the Palladian design. Part of the old palace, the home of the Princess Elizabeth, still remains. The interior is very richly decorated, and contains tapestry and paintings by the old masters. The floor of the Dining Room is laid with valuable stone. In the Great Hall are two banners presented by the Duke of Wellington, who captured them in Paris in 1814. At one end of the hall is a bust of the late Marquess. The Grand Staircase is one of the finest parts of the house, and is elaborately adorned. On the walls are family portraits by Vandyck, Zucchero, Lely, Reynolds, &c. King James's Room is also decorated in a style of rich magnificence. The Ball Room is, however, the most richly decorated room in the house, and the effect is remarkable. The ceiling, which presents a luxurious appearance, is a mass of gold, with exquisite carving. On the walls are some fine paintings of various sovereigns and nobles. There is also contained in this room a genealogical record claiming to trace the descent of the Marquess back to Adam and Eve. In the Library are the 42 Articles of Edward VI., papers of Wolsey's, also State papers, and autographs of sovereigns. Over the chimney is a mosaic portrait of the 1st Earl of Salisbury (1608). In the Gallery is to be seen the saddle used by Queen Elizabeth. The ceiling here is of beautiful design. The Park is rich in scenic effect and well wooded. In it may be seen Queen Elizabeth's Oak and Lion Oak, the latter being about 60 ft. in girth and 1000 years old. The house was one of the first mansions to be lighted by electricity, the work being carried out under the direction of the late Marquess. The chief entrance is on the south facing the railway station. The public entrance is reached by way of the town—about 10 minutes' walk.

HAWARDEN CASTLE, FLINTSHIRE, is a fine castellated mansion, first erected in 1752. In 1809 it was reconstructed, additions were made, and the building embattled. A large tower was erected in the centre. The ruins of the ancient castle—probably built by Robert de Montalt—are situated in the Park, and are surrounded by trenches. The Park covers about 250 acres. William the Conqueror, in pursuit of his policy of giving away that which belonged not to him, granted Hawarden to Hugh Lupus, Earl of Chester, a kinsman of his. In 1231 it passed into the possession of the Montalts, and was given in 1264 to the Welsh chieftain Llewellyn. Later on it was held by the Crown, and passed to the Montacutes, from whom, in 1454, it came into the hands of the Stanleys (Earl of Derby), and with whom it remained for 200 years. After the battle of Worcester it was sequestrated, and was bought by Sergeant Glynne, who had considerable influence with Cromwell, who appointed him Lord Chief Justice. He was knighted by Charles II. It has remained in the possession of the family ever since. The Castle is situated 6 miles west of Chester, the nearest station being Queen's Ferry, about 2 miles away.

HEVER CASTLE, KENT.

Hever was originally the fortress of the De Hevre family, who were apparently of Norman origin. William de Hevre had permission from Edward III. to fortify the house. Through him the estate passed to the Cobham and Brocas families, the former, who purchased it, selling it to Sir Geoffrey Buller or Boleyn, who was Lord Mayor of London 1458, the great grandfather of the unfortunate Anne Boleyn, who was born here about 1507. In 1745 Hever was purchased by Timothy Waldo, whose family became extinct in 1840. The estate is now owned by W. W. Astor, Esq. The house is one of the most interesting specimens of English domestic architecture of the 15th and 16th centuries. The Council Room contains old chairs and needlework, the latter attributed to Anne Boleyn. In the stained glass windows of the old Dining Hall are the arms of the Boleyns and the Howards. Anne Boleyn's room is beautifully panelled. The Great State Room, in that part which is properly called the Castle, has some fine Gothic tracery over the fireplace. The Castle is situated about 7 miles west of Tonbridge and 1 mile from Hever station. Admission on Wednesdays.

HOLME LACY, HEREFORDSHIRE.

The Scudamore family, one of whom accompanied William the Conqueror to England, were in possession of Holme Lacy for some centuries. John Scudamore was made a baronet in 1620, and created Baron Dromore and Viscount Scudamore of Sligo in 1628. In 1716 the estate passed to the daughter and only heir of Viscount Scudamore. Charles Fitzroy, whom she married, assumed the name of Scudamore. The estate subsequently devolved upon Captain Sir E. F. Stanhope, Bart., R.N., who died in 1874. One of his sons succeeded in 1883 as the 9th Earl of Chesterfield, the present owner being the 10th Earl. The 1st Viscount Scudamore, who was a friend of Pope, built the house. The rooms are decorated with family portraits, and contain fine specimens of carvings by Grinling Gibbons. The old garden at the side was designed in imitation of Hampton Court Palace. The house is situated 5 miles south-east of Hereford and is less than a mile from Holme Lacy station.

HOLWOOD HOUSE, KENT,

the seat of the Earl of Derby, was built in 1825 from the designs of Decimus Burton. It is in the Classical Renaissance style and composed of brick and Portland stone. The estate was purchased by Pitt in 1785. There are 4 Ionic columns in the front of the house, and recessed Doric columns in the wings. The Saloon occupies the whole of the centre of the building. In the Park (125 acres) are earthworks, said to be of earlier origin than the Roman occupation. The Park is noted for its splendid forest trees, and was a favourite resort of Pitt's. The nearest station, Chelsfield, is 3 miles away, and Westerham is 6 miles south.

IGHTHAM MOTE, SEVENOAKS.

The house, now the seat of T. C. Colyer Ferguson, Esq., J.P., was originally built by Sir Ivo de Haut about 1180. Sir Thomas Cawne in 1340 built the Hall. In 1484 Richard de Haut the owner was beheaded at Pontefract, and the estate passed to Sir Robert Brackenbury, the Governor of the Tower, who was slain at Bosworth. In Henry VIII.'s reign it was restored to the De Hauts, who entertained the King here. The Royal Arms can be seen by the fireplace in the Dining Room. Subsequently the estate passed to the Selbys. In 1521 it was bought by Sir Richard Clement, who in 1544 sold it to Sir John Allen. In Queen Elizabeth's reign it was sold to Sir William Selby, in which family it remained until 1838. The house is probably the finest specimen of a moated mansion in the South of England. The Hall is the oldest part of the present building. The Crypt has a fine groined roof. In the Drawing Room the walls are covered with Chinese wall paper, some 200 years old. There is some fine old English carving in the house. The Chapel dates from 1520. Admission on Fridays 11-1 and 3-6, charge 6*d*. The house is about 5 miles east of Sevenoaks and 1½ miles from Wrotham station.

KEDLESTON HALL, DERBY.

Lord Scarsdale's seat, a pure classical mansion, was erected in 1761, and at that time was acknowledged to be the most perfect specimen in the Kingdom. It was designed by Robert Adam and is considered his masterpiece. The six columns of the front portico are designed from those at the Pantheon at Rome. The Curzons are said to have descended from Geraline de Curson or Curzon, who came over with William the Conqueror and was of Breton origin. The Scarsdale title was held by the family of Leake, but became extinct in 1736. The Leakes were descended from Adam de Leca of Leak in Nottinghamshire, who was living in 1141. The Great Hall is probably one of the finest rooms constructed in the classical style. It is surrounded by Corinthian pillars and is very beautiful in detail. Some choice paintings and sculpture are contained in it. In the Music Room, Drawing Room and Library are some fine pictures by Rembrandt, Guido, Raphael, Michael Angelo, Vandyck, Caracci, Giordano, and others. There are some grand old oaks in the Park, which contains a large number of deer. The once famous Kedleston Baths — medicinal sulphur springs—are situated in the park. The drive from the entrance lodge to the house is 1 mile. Derby station is about 4 miles to the south-east.

KNEBWORTH HOUSE, HERTS,

the ancestral home of the Lyttons, is a fine specimen of Tudor architecture. It has an elaborate façade, covered with heraldry, the roof being surmounted with griffins bearing shields and battleaxes, while the two wings of the mansion are flanked by ornamental turrets. The old fortress dated back to the reign of Edward III. and formed the front or east side of the original house—a quadrangular building. Three sides of this were removed, and the fourth, which was built by Sir Robert de Lytton, Keeper of the Great Wardrobe and Under Treasurer in Henry VII.'s reign, constitutes the present mansion. During the Civil War skirmishes took place here between the opposing forces. The house was originally built in 1563, but the greater part was pulled down in 1811, when the present building was erected, restorations and enlargements being carried out in 1833. The chief feature of the Grounds is Horace's Garden, in which there is a bust of the poet. Over the Entrance porch is a tablet with the arms of Sir Rowland Lytton, with date 1563. On the right of the Entrance Hall is the Banqueting Hall, which contains some very fine wainscotting and a beautiful Elizabethan oak screen and Minstrels' Gallery. On the frieze in black lettering is a legend by Sir E. Bulwer-Lytton. Banners representing battles in which the family bore arms hang from the vaulted roof, and over the entrance is a silk-embroidered banner presented by Queen Victoria in 1877 to the Earl of Delhi, who proclaimed Her Majesty Empress of India. In the Old Drawing Room are portraits of Henry V. and Edward IV. in the panels of the mantelpiece. There are also portraits of Lord Lytton, the novelist, by Maclise; of Queen Elizabeth, Sir Philip Sidney, Clara Eugenia, Infanta of Spain, by Reubens. In the cabinets are relics, including some hair of Nelson and Wellington, and snuff boxes of Pitt and Fox. In the Library, on the Gothic mantelpiece, is a motto in Latin—"Here live those worthy to live." On the Grand Staircase are two suits of Milanese damascene armour of fine workmanship, and between them is a portrait of Spinola by Velasquez, above which is a portrait of the Emperor Charles V. on horseback. There are also portraits of Lord Beaconsfield, of Addison by Van Holst, and of Sir E. Bulwer-Lytton by E. M. Ward. In the First State Room are pictures by Wouvermans, Lancret, Carlo Dolce, Tintoretto, etc., and fine specimens of sculpture; also some gilt vases, once belonging to the Empress Josephine at Malmaison. In the adjoining Ante Room the walls are of unique design, in old Venetian leather. There are portraits of the 1st Earl of Salisbury, Cervantes, Lord Darnley, and Sir Philip Sidney. The walls of the small Western Drawing Room are in bugle tapestry from the Palace of the Medici at Florence, and hanging on them are paintings by Rembrandt. At the top of the Circular Staircase is a life-size figure in boxwood of Sir Walter Raleigh. In Queen Elizabeth's Chamber the Queen is stated to have slept in the year of the Spanish Armada. In the Portrait Gallery are pictures of Edward VI., Wolsey, Sir Thomas More, Erasmus, Drake, Anna of Austria, William III. and Mary, Mirabeau, Nell Gwynn, Rousseau, Voltaire, and a profile of Shakespeare. In 1850 Dickens took part in some theatrical performances here. The present tenant of Knebworth is Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, High Commissioner for Canada. It is not thrown open to the public, but permission is sometimes given to visitors to look over the house and grounds, which are situated 1½ miles from Knebworth station.

KNOLE PARK, SEVENOAKS.

In the reign of King John the manor and estates of Knole were held by Baldwin de Bethun or Betune, Earl of Albemarle—the first Earl being a relative of William the Conqueror. It passed subsequently to William Mareschal, Earl of Pembroke, to Roger Bigod, Earl of Norfolk, to Otho de Grandison, to Geoffrey de Say, who was Admiral of the Fleet in Edward III.'s reign, to James Fiennes, created Lord Say and Sele, and to Thomas Bourchier, Archbishop of Canterbury, who bequeathed the estate to the See of Canterbury. It thus became the residence of the Archbishop, and Cranmer resided here. He surrendered it to Henry VIII. Later it was given by Queen Elizabeth to Sir Robert Dudley, Earl of Leicester, and after a few years it came into the possession of Thomas Sackville, who was created Lord Buckhurst and Earl of Dorset, and known as the poet Lord Buckhurst. The present is the 2nd Baron Sackville. The gatehouse, second gateway, and a good part of the first quadrangle are apparently of the time of Archbishop Bourchier, about 1460. The Cartoon Gallery, the glory of Knole, contains copies by Mytens of some of Raphael's famous cartoons. There is some rich carving here of elegant design. In the "Brown" Gallery the pictures are chiefly in one style. The Retainers' Gallery is very picturesque, and extends the whole length of the house. In the Dining Room are portraits of Shakespeare, Chaucer, Swift, Cowley, Pope, Milton, Hobbes, Goldsmith, and other notabilities. The Tapestry in the house includes some fine specimens by Crane, the master of the Mortlake Tapestry Works in the reign of Charles I. In the Porters' Apartments are arms and other war implements. Henry VII., Henry VIII., and Queen Elizabeth were visitors to Knole. The house is situated on the east of Sevenoaks, about a mile from Tubs Hill station. The public are admitted on Thursdays 2—5, Fridays 10—5, and Saturdays 2—5. Tickets at the Porter's Lodge, 2*s.* each; reduced rate for four and over.

LEEDS CASTLE, KENT.

The original building was erected by the Crevecœur family in the reign of Edward I. For a considerable time it was held as Crown property, during which period many distinguished foreigners were entertained there. Extensive repairs were done in the reign of Henry VIII., and later it was converted into a fine Elizabethan house. In Edward VI.'s reign it was granted to Antony St. Leger, of Ulcombe, Kent. It passed to the Fairfax family, and the 7th Lord Fairfax made alterations to it. The building now somewhat resembles the Château of Chenonceaux and the Château of Amboise in France, and was erected in 1822. It is protected by a wide moat, and has the appearance of a stronghold. From the Fairfax family it passed to Mr. Wykeham Martin. Among the many interesting features is a casket of Anne Boleyn's. The Castle is situated about 5 miles from Maidstone. It is only shown to the public once a year, on the occasion of the Leeds Flower Show, usually held in August Bank Holiday week. The nearest station is Hollingbourne, about a mile distant.

LONGLEAT HOUSE, WILTSHIRE.

In 1575 Queen Elizabeth visited Longleat; in 1663 it was visited by Charles II., and later on by George III. The original builder of the mansion was Sir John Thynne, who erected it on the site of the priory here in 1567. It was completed by Viscount Weymouth. The second Marquis of Bath carried out most extensive alterations about 1808, and added the north front, from designs by Sir Jeffrey Wyattville. On the upper storey of the façade are Corinthian pilasters, Ionic in the centre and Dorie at the base. The Stone Terrace was designed by Wren. The Park is 12 miles in circumference, and is watered by a branch of the Frome. Some of the Scotch firs are over 120 feet high. The Gardens were planned by Lancelot ("Capability") Brown. The estate altogether contains some 2,000 acres. The interior of the house is elaborately decorated, and there is a large amount of sculpture. The Great Hall has a fine oak roof, carved wainscotting, a sculptured mantelpiece, and a carved screen and gallery. Over the screen are the arms of Somerset the Protector; here is a collection of armour and battleaxes, and some hunting pictures by Wootton. In the Corridor are pictures by Lely, Kneller, Mytens, and others. There is a portrait of Henry VIII. and Somerset, by Holbein. In the South Library and in the Drawing Room are paintings by Raphael, Mantegna, and other Italian artists. The Saloon contains some old tapestry. The house is situated 5½ miles from Warminster, the nearest station, and is the seat of the Marquess of Bath.

LOWTHER CASTLE, WESTMORLAND.

This magnificent structure, the seat of the Earl of Lonsdale, was designed by Sir Robert Smirke, the building being commenced in 1803. The greater part of the mansion, erected in 1685 by Sir John Lowther, was destroyed by fire in 1720. The Lowther family dates back as early as the reign of Henry II. The Park, finely wooded, covers from 600-800 acres. The Lawns and Deer Park are situated on the south front; on the west are the Terrace and Pleasure Gardens, beautifully laid out; and on the east the stables, kitchen gardens, etc. The river Lowther flows a little distance from the front of the Castle. The collection of pictures is a most extensive and valuable one, and includes examples by Rembrandt, Vandyck, Rubens, Titian, Kneller, Wouvermans, Guido, Canaletto, Tintoretto, Paolo Veronese, Hogarth, Luca Giordano, Teniers, Poussin, Zuccarelli, Salvator Rosa, Snyders, Hoppner, Jackson, Lawrence, some of the finest specimens being hung in the Countess's or Breakfast Room, viz., Rubens' "Holy Family" and Teniers' "The Wakes," "The Feast," and the "Fête Champêtre." Among those in the Picture Gallery are ten paintings of rare excellence by Snyder. In the Billiard Room are portraits of "Westmoreland Worthies," Catharine Parr, Addison, Hogarth, and in the Dining Room of Pitt and the Duke of Wellington. The Library, hung with family portraits, contains a table made of the wood from one of the piles of the old London Bridge, and inserted in it is a small portion of the "Abdication Tree" of Napoleon, i.e. part of the table on which Napoleon signed his abdication in 1814. In addition to the paintings in the Saloon is a collection of some excellent old china, and in the Drawing Room, which has an elaborate groined ceiling with fan tracery, is a fine suite of furniture in ivory and gold, which once belonged to Tippoo Sahib. There is also a very interesting album containing contributions by Scott, Wordsworth, Southey, the Duke of Wellington, and Sir Humphry Davy in their own handwriting. On the first landing of the Grand Staircase are some fine sculptured figures, the Lowther arms, and Lawrence's portrait of George IV. and Kneller's Duke of Marlborough. The Sculpture Gallery contains a fine collection of Roman inscribed stones, as well as Venus Sculpture from the Venus Temple at Cnidus, and statues of Diana, Julius Cæsar, Agrippina, Bacchus, Marcus Aurelius, Hygeia, busts of Homer, Plato, Nero, Trajan, the Cæsars, Livia, bronze statues of Hercules, Pitt, Wellington, George III., and a torso of a Venus. The Castle is reached from Clifton and Lowther station, 2 miles away, and Penrith is about 7 miles off.

MADRESFIELD COURT, WORCESTERSHIRE.

This old moated Tudor house was until 1321 the seat of the Bracy family, when it passed by marriage to Thomas Lygon, and later (1713) to Reginald Pindar, whose son took the surname of Lygon. In 1806 William Lygon was created Baron Beauchamp, and in 1815 Earl Beauchamp. The fifth Earl in 1863 reconstructed the house from the plans of Mr. P. C. Hardwick, whilst his successor in 1866 repaired the front, rebuilt other parts of the house, and also erected a chapel. The alterations were completed in 1875. During the Civil War the house was occupied both by the Royalists and Parliamentarians, Colonel Lygon espousing the cause of the latter. The Great Staircase contains, in some ancient glass in one of the windows, the heraldry of the Lygons. In one of the Bedrooms is a quilt of flowered damask embroidered in coloured silks by Queen Anne and the first Duchess of Marlborough. The house contains a collection of historical miniatures and enamels originally belonging to the wife of the first Earl. There is also a collection of Limoges enamels, crystals, ivories, and snuff-boxes which were acquired by General Lygon, who commanded the 2nd Life Guards at Waterloo. The Great Gates, which were erected in 1881, are stated to have been the choir gates of Cologne Cathedral; and the gates opposite Penn Farm were once in the north porch of Worcester Cathedral. The house is situated 2 miles east of Madresfield station, and is 6 miles south-west of Worcester. Admission may be obtained by special permit from the House Steward.

MELBOURNE HALL, DERBYSHIRE.

Melbourne Hall has been the seat of two Prime Ministers—Lord Melbourne, who derived his title therefrom, and Lord Palmerston. It was originally in possession of the Coke family, descended from Hugh Coke of Edward III.'s reign. Sir John Coke, born 1563, was the first to reside here. Subsequently the estates passed to the Lambe family, Sir Peniston Lamb, Bart., being created Baron Melbourne. From them they passed into the possession of the Cowper family. In 1811 the house, not a very elegant one, was occupied by Sir Sidney Smith, the hero of Acre. The Grounds, which are the chief attraction, are laid out in the old style introduced from Holland by William III., and include a tunnel of yew trees. In the house are many valuable pictures and family portraits, chiefly of the Coke family. It was at Melbourne Hall that Baxter wrote his "Saints' Rest." Admiral Lord Walter Ker is the present owner of the mansion, which is situated on the river Trent on the borders of Leicestershire, 8 miles from Derby.

MONTACUTE HOUSE, SOMERSETSHIRE.

The history of Montacute is traced back to Sir William Howard, Judge of Common Pleas in 1297. The house, which is the seat of W. R. Phelips, Esq., D.L., J.P., was built 1580–1601 of Hamhill sandstone in the Elizabethan style; in plan it is after the letter H. The front is adorned with statues representing Moses, Joshua, Judas Maccabæus, Cæsar, Pompey and Alexander the Great, King Arthur, Godfrey de Bouillon, and the Emperor Charlemagne. The Lodge and Gateway, now converted into a farmhouse, are in the Perpendicular style and in good preservation. The house contains a collection of armour, paintings, engravings and carvings. In the Grounds are two garden houses, probably unique in their kind. They have quaint bay windows, pillared angles, and possess quaint roofs and enriched cresting. The yew hedges in some cases are 15 ft. high. The house is situated 4 miles west of Yeovil, and is half a mile from Montacute station. Special permission is necessary to view it.

MOOR PARK, HERTS.

In 1464 George Nevill, Bishop of Exeter, and Archbishop of York 1464, enclosed the Park. He was arrested for treason by Henry VI., who confiscated the estate. Henry VII. gave it to John de Vere, Earl of Oxford, and subsequently Cardinal Wolsey came into possession of it and enlarged the mansion. Here, in 1529, he entertained Henry VIII. and Queen Catherine of Aragon in costly style. His arm-chair and saddle are still preserved. Later owners were the Earl of Bedford, Earl of Pembroke, Earl of Monmouth, Duke of Ormond, Marquess of Westminster. Lord Ebury, a descendant of the latter, is the present owner. The mansion was built by Mr. Styles—who made a large fortune over the South Sea Bubble—from designs by Leoni. There is a fine portico to the front, with four Corinthian columns. The Entrance Hall is richly decorated, and contains paintings of the gods by Amiconi. There are five marble doorways with sculptured figures of all the Virtues and of Peace and Plenty. There is a Picture Gallery above, and the richly-decorated ceiling contains an imitation of the dome of St. Peter's, Rome. The Grand Staircase contains a series of paintings of the fable of Pento and Proserpine. The Dining Room has a fine marble fireplace, costing, it is said, £3,500. Queen Victoria and the Prince Consort visited the late Lord Ebury here. There are three entrances—one from Rickmansworth, one from Watford, and one from Batchworth Heath. The estate covers 500 acres. Rickmansworth, the nearest station, is about a mile distant.

MOUNT EDGCUMBE, CORNWALL.

Prior to 1854 Mount Edgcumbe was part of Devonshire, but in this year an Act of Parliament placed it in Cornwall. The lineage of the Edgcumbe family can be traced directly back to 1296, when Richard Edgcumbe was Lord of Edgcumbe. In Edward III.'s reign the Cotehele estates came into the family by marriage. The title of Baron Edgcumbe was created in 1742; that of Viscount Mount Edgcumbe and Valletort in 1781, and that of Earl of Mount Edgcumbe in 1789. The house was originally built in 1553, and parts of the old structure remain. As the house is not shown to the public, it is not much use going into any detail regarding its interesting features; but it may be mentioned that the large number of paintings include portraits of Charles I., Charles II., James II., William III., and others. There are many by Sir Joshua Reynolds, and some by Lely and Vandervelde. The Park is open on the first Saturday in each month, and Wednesday in the other three weeks. On other days permission must be obtained from the Manor Office, Emma Place, Stonehouse (with a guide, fee 2*s.* 6*d.*). The Grounds are adorned with busts, and are laid out in the Italian, French, and English styles. Items of interest are "Thomson's Seat," the "Temple of Milton," in which is a bust of the poet; a recess, called the Amphitheatre; the "White Seat," from which a very fine view is obtained. A special order to view the grounds must be obtained from the Manor Office, Stonehouse. Maker Church contains some interesting memorials of the family. Mount Edgcumbe is about half-a-mile across the bay from Plymouth. From the Hoe steamers go across on the days mentioned; while a ferry goes every day from Admiral's Hard, Stonehouse.

MUNDEN, HERTS,

the seat of the Hon. G. H. Holland-Hibbert, is situated between Watford and St. Albans, the nearest station being Bricketwood, 1½ miles away. The estate was originally known as Meriden, and was granted to Edward Waldegrave by Henry VIII. Lord Denny later on came into possession of it, but sold it to Thomas Ewer of the Lea in 1607. From the descendants of the latter it came into the possession of Mr. Holland-Hibbert's ancestors. The house is in the Tudor style, and was erected by Mr. George Hibbert, F.R.S. The Inner Hall contains a table which once belonged to Charles I.; also armour, swords, pistols of Louis XVI., a dress-sword having the Twelve Apostles represented on the blade, and a cabusset of the 16th century, decorated in blue, steel, and gold. In the Library is a clock once belonging to Charles I., and a painting by C. Stanfield of a pastoral subject for a fresco in Buckingham Palace. The Drawing Room contains works of art and bric-à-brac. Also paintings by Dobson (shown at the Stuart Exhibition) of Charles I. and Henry, Duke of Gloucester; Rubens; Guido ("Ecce Homo"), and four remarkable pictures of Earth, Air, Fire, and Water, by Bassano. There is also a microscope which belonged to Charles I. In the Private Study are some sketches by Holbein, Guercino, and Tintoretto; also some Roman horseshoes. The articles which belonged to Charles I. were acquired by Francis Rogers, an ancestor of the family, who was Groom of the Chambers.

NAWORTH CASTLE, CUMBERLAND.

This famous feudal stronghold—one of the finest on the Border—has witnessed many a desperate foray. The following verse refers to "Belted Will's" renowned exploits:—

> "O'er Naworth's iron towers
> The warder kept his guard,
> Low humming, as he paced along,
> Some ancient Border gathering song."

The Castle was apparently built by Robert Dacre in the reign of Henry III. This family held it until 1577, when it passed to Lord William Howard ("Belted Will"), who kept a garrison of 140 men. He died here 1640. His great-grandson was created Earl of Carlisle in 1661. In 1844 part of the building and most of the woodwork were destroyed. It was restored by the 6th Earl from the designs of Anthony Salvin. Lord Howard's Tower is on the east, the Chancellor's Tower on the west. The walls of the Castle are of enormous thickness. In one part a corridor has been constructed through the solid wall, and even now the sides are several feet thick. Over the gateway are the Dacre arms and motto "Forte in loialté" (Strong in faith). The Great Hall has a handsome timbered roof by Salvin, and contains armour, including the suit of "Belted Will." There are also portraits of the latter, and of Catherine Parr, the Earl of Surrey, Charles I., and Mary Queen of Scots. The tapestry was the gift of Henry IV. to Mary de Medici. There is also a fine picture by Glass of a Mosstrooper on a moonlight raid. In the Drawing Room is a copy of Camden's "Britannia." The Guard Room contains some curious pieces of cabinet work. In Lord Howard's Tower is his Library, with the books still on the shelves. The Oratory adjoining has a trap-door, by which Lord Howard is supposed to have secretly visited his prisoners. Near the main entrance are two massive oaks which were used by "Belted Will" to hang the Border raiders he captured. The Castle is open every weekday. Naworth station, 11 miles N.E. of Carlisle, is 1 mile away.

NORTHWICK PARK, WORCESTERSHIRE.

The seat of Lady Northwick is situated 1 mile from Blockley station. It is chiefly in the Elizabethan style. The west side was erected in Queen Anne's reign, and in 1730 Sir John Rushout, Bart., remodelled the mansion. The barony of Northwick became extinct on the death of George, the 3rd Baron, in 1887. In former times the house was the ancient seat of the Childes. The Picture Gallery has a fine collection, including examples by Raphael, Vandyck, Hogarth, Rubens, Titian, Guido, Teniers, Landseer, Velasquez, and others. There is also a valuable collection of engravings and prints, and Greek and Roman coins and medals. An interesting curiosity is a model of the Dunmow flitch of bacon awarded to Lord and Lady Northwick. The night watchman still follows the old custom of walking round the house every hour from 9 p.m. to 6 a.m., and blowing a whistle, and announcing the state of the weather. The Park covers some 300 acres, including two large lakes, and contains a large number of deer. Permission is sometimes granted to view the house.

NUNEHAM PARK, OXON.

The 1st Earl Harcourt built the mansion from designs by Mr. Leadbetter. It is a large plain stone building, a central block having wings connected by corridors. It contains many valuable paintings by the old masters, and includes portraits by Reynolds and Kneller, Vandyck's "Queen Henrietta Maria," Murillo's "Two Beggar Boys," and others by Velasquez, Caracci, Jackson, etc. In the Library are important autograph letters and family MSS., and letters by George III., also portraits of Horace Walpole, Pope, Prior, and Mason, and a fine one of Milton when young by Van der Gucht. Among the curiosities are a Sèvres service; Rousseau's Tasso and papers given to Earl Harcourt by his widow; a quarry of glass from the tower at Stanton Harcourt, on which Pope has scratched the words, "In the year 1718 Alexander Pope finished here the Fifth Book of Homer"; Queen Charlotte's snuff-box; tapestry worked by Mary Queen of Scots. The Park, which extends along the river Isis for a good distance, is 1,200 acres in extent, and stocked with deer. From Whitehead's Oak a fine view of Oxford can be obtained. Near this oak is the Conduit, which was erected originally in 1610 at Carfax, in Oxford, by Otho Nicholson, who was a student of Christ Church. It is a very picturesque structure in the Renaissance style, and adorned with figures. It was placed here in 1787, being presented by the City of Oxford to George Simon, 2nd Earl Harcourt. The Grounds are laid out in fine style. The Right Hon. Lewis Harcourt, M.P., Lord of the Manor, is the present owner. The house is situated at Nuneham Courtney, and is 3½ miles from Culham station. Admission to the Park on Tuesdays and Thursdays, from 1st May to the middle of September; private parties are shown over the grounds from 2—5. Tickets from Mr. H. Gale, estate agent, Nuneham Courtney.

PANSHANGER, HERTS.

The seat of the Countess Cowper is in the revived Gothic style from Mr. Atkinson's designs, who largely rebuilt it about 1810. It contains a valuable collection of paintings which number over 200. The Picture Gallery includes, among others, "Laura" of Petrarch, by Andrea del Sarto; Raphael's "Virgin and Child"; "Ecce Homo," by Correggio; "Portrait of a Man," "Boy and Dog," and "Holy Family" by Velasquez; portrait of the Count of Nassau and his family by Vandyck (1634). In the Dining Room are some of Vandyck's paintings, and in the Billiard Room is a portrait of Lady Melbourne by Reynolds. The China Room contains a very valuable collection, including old Indian china, also Sèvres, Chelsea, Crown Derby. Other interesting items include a set of very valuable Sèvres vases and a bookcase with correspondence of Lord Melbourne's. The Park is 900 acres in extent. Panshanger is situated 3 miles west of Hertford, and is distant 1½ miles from Hertingfordbury, the nearest station.

PENSHURST HOUSE.

The home of the historic Sidneys is a fine Tudor mansion situated in the weald of Kent, 6 miles south-west of Tonbridge, adjoining the village of Penshurst. The estate was originally the seat of the Penecestres or Penchesters, who settled here during the period of the Norman Conquest. Subsequently it passed to John de Columbers; Sir John de Poultney (four times Lord Mayor of London); then to Louvaines, Sir Philip St. Clere, the Duke of Bedford, Humphrey, Duke of Gloucester, and to the Staffords. Henry VIII., who brought the Duke of Buckingham to the scaffold, now treacherously obtained the estates, which later on were given by Edward VI. to Sir Ralph Fane. In Elizabeth's reign they passed to Sir William Sidney, who distinguished himself at the battle of Flodden Field. The celebrated Sir Philip Sidney was born here 29th November, 1554. The present owner of the estates is Philip Sidney, 2nd Baron De L'Isle and Dudley, born 1828.

The Park, through which flows the River Medway, is 400 acres in extent and contains some fine specimens of timber. Sidney's Oak, which was planted on the day of Sir Philip's birth, has been the subject of numerous references by several poets. "Sacharissa's Walk" in the Long Avenue obtains its name from Dorothy Sidney—the Sacharissa in Waller's poems.

Over the gateway of the main entrance is an inscription stating that "The most religious and renowned Prince, Edward the Sixt, Kinge of England, France and Ireland, gave this house of Pencestre, with the manors, landes and appurtenaynces thereunto belonginge, unto his trustye and well-beloved servant Syr William Sidney, Knight Banneret."

In the interior of the Hall is some very choice work, including a painted timber roof. In the Elizabethan house are some chairs dating from the time of Charles II.; an Augsburg clock of the 17th century; and an illustration of the funeral procession of Sir Philip Sidney. The Ball Room contains family portraits, and in Queen Elizabeth's Room, adjoining, is the furniture placed there when Queen Elizabeth visited the mansion; also a picture of the Queen dancing with the Earl of Leicester. In the Picture Gallery are nothing but family portraits, excepting one of Edward VI. The family motto is "Quo Fata Vocant."

The nearest station is Penshurst on the S.E. & C.R., from which the mansion is quickly reached. Admission on Mons., Tues., Thurs., Fris. from 2 to 6 p.m. Tickets (1*s.*) can be obtained from the Post Office and from the Leicester Arms Hotel.

PETWORTH HOUSE, SUSSEX.

Petworth is known as Peteorde in Domesday. The estate has passed through the possession of Robert de Montgomery, who was Earl of Arundel in the 11th century; William de Albini, also created Earl of Arundel; John Fitzalan, 5th Earl; Henry de Percy, 1st Baron Percy of Alnwick, who died 1315. The 4th Baron was created Earl of Northumberland. With the death of the 11th Earl the title became extinct, and the estate passed to his sister, who married Charles, Duke of Somerset. It comes later on into the possession of the Earl of Egremont. His adopted heir, George Wyndham, succeeded him, and was in 1859 created Baron Leconfield, the ancestor of the present owner. The house was reconstructed by Charles, Duke of Somerset. It possesses a very elegant interior, and contains a splendid collection of paintings by Turner, Vandyck, Hogarth, Holbein, Lely, Gainsborough, Reynolds, Kneller, and most of the Italian masters. There are some exquisite wood carvings by Grinling Gibbons and some well-executed work of Jonathan Ritson's. A sword is preserved which is said to have been used by Hotspur at the Battle of Shrewsbury. The Sculpture Gallery contains some antique statues and busts by Flaxman—his last work and chef-d'œuvre. The Chapel is decorated with the arms and badges of the Percys. The Park is of great extent, the walls being 12 miles in circumference. The house is open on Tuesdays and Thursdays on application at the Lodge; parties, not exceeding 30, being admitted at the hours of 11, 12, 2, and 3. Petworth station is 2½ miles away.

RABY CASTLE, DURHAM.

Raby is evidently of Danish origin, it first occurring in connection with King Canute, who offered it to St. Cuthbert's Monastery at Durham. In 1131 it was held by Dolfin, son of Ughtred, who apparently founded the manor. His decendant Robert Fitz-Maldred, described as "Dominus de Raby," was lineal heir to Ughtred, Earl of Northumberland. John de Nevil, Baron of Raby, who died 1388, built the present Castle. The estate ultimately passed to the Vanes, from whom Lord Barnard, the present owner, is descended. The Castle is built on solid rock and is enclosed by an embattled wall. The Gateway, erected about 1385, has a fine outer entrance, and over the arch are three shields: (1) Nevil, (2) St. George, (3) Latimer, each surmounted with the Garter. In the Porter's Lodge are some family relics, including the sword of Lord Barnard—son of the 1st Earl of Darlington—used at the Battle of Fontenoy. In the Entrance or Great Hall, which has Decorated windows, is Turner's celebrated picture of the Castle. There are a large number of family portraits and others, including Queen Elizabeth, Cromwell and James II., in the Barons' Hall, where, in the language of Wordsworth, "Seven hundred knights, retainers all, Of Neville, at the master's call, Had sate together in Raby's Hall." In the Octagon Drawing Room is Hiram Power's statue of the "Greek Slave," bought for £1,800 by the 2nd Duke of Cleveland. The Chapel, which is reached by a staircase from the Barons' Hall, contains some stained-glass windows by Wailes, and also Murillo's "St. Catherine" and "The Saviour bearing the Cross." The Park covers about 1,000 acres and has three entrances, the main one being at the South Lodge, near Staindrip Church. The Gardens are on the north side of the Castle. The "Raby Fig Tree" is over 1,000 years old and still produces a large quantity of fruit. Cockfield, the nearest station, is about a mile distant, Barnard Castle being 7 miles to the south-west. The public are admitted on Saturdays.

SANDRINGHAM, NORFOLK.

This magnificent estate, situated about 4 miles inland from the S.E. corner of the Wash, was procured by Lord Palmerston in 1861, being purchased, through the wisdom of the Prince Consort, as a residence for the Prince of Wales. Sandringham was formerly owned by the Seaton family, from whom it subsequently passed to the Cliftons, Cobbes, Hoste Henley, John Molteux, who owned it from 1834-43, from whom it passed to the Hon. Spencer Cowper. The mansion is in the Elizabethan style. The Ball Room contains a collection of armour acquired by the King during his Eastern travels. In the Anteroom adjoining is a picture of the King tiger shooting, by Mr. Herbert Johnstone, and in the Corridor hangs Mr. Emil Adam's picture of the King shooting in Austria. Armoury, ivory tusks, and busts of members of the Royal Family are also collected here. The Dining Room contains tapestries presented by the King of Spain. In the Drawing Room is a fine portrait of the Queen, by Edward Hughes, also a picture of the marriage of Princess Charles of Denmark, and a portrait of the Empress of Russia. Included here also are collections of Dresden China, miniatures, &c. In the Billiard Room are trophies, including some moose heads, and some sketches of Mafeking. The corridor contains the shell that was fired into Mafeking on the 9th November, 1899. The Grounds are very extensive, and include a very fine rosary. Adjoining are His Majesty's racing stables, kennels, &c. The public are admitted to the gardens and grounds on Wednesdays, when the Royal Family are not in residence. The nearest station is Wolferton, about 3 miles away.

SHERBORNE CASTLE, DORSETSHIRE.

The Castle was originally built by Sir Walter Raleigh, whose arms appear over one of the windows, with the date 1594. After his attainder the estate passed to the ancestors of the present owner, J. K. D. Wingfield Digby, Esq., M.P. Two wings in the Elizabethan style were subsequently added, and the Castle is now in the form of the letter H. It was here that William III. was received in November, 1688, after he landed at Torbay. A fine lake separates the Castle from the old ruins; and the Park, some 470 acres, contains about 2,000 deer. There are some fine paintings in the various rooms, including the celebrated picture of the procession of Queen Elizabeth to St. Paul's after the destruction of the Armada. The Saloon, the finest of all the rooms, is 50 ft. long. The Parlour has some fine tapestry of Romans, a present from the King of Spain to the Earl of Bristol. In the Dairy is a tessellated Roman pavement which was discovered at Lenthay Common. The Castle is situated close to Sherborne station, and admission can be obtained on application at the Estate Office.

SOMERLEYTON HALL, SUFFOLK.

The estates came into the hands of the Crossley family in 1862, Sir Savile Crossley (born 1857) being the present owner. Mr. S. M. Peto had held them previously, having purchased them in 1844 from Lord Sidney Godolphin-Osborne. The house, which was entirely rearranged by Mr. Peto, is one of the finest old brick mansions. The Park is some 200 acres in extent and contains some fine avenues of trees. The Gardens are excellently laid out, and include the Winter Garden, Italian Garden—opposite the west front—and the Dutch Garden, the latter, in geometrical form, being laid out by Nesfield, in the same manner as the gardens at Castle Howard, which he designed. In the Winter Garden are some fine statues. The front terrace of the house is 300 feet long. The Hall is hung with valuable armour and arms, one suit of armour, inlaid with gold, being of fine design and workmanship; it bears the date 1652. A painting by Maclise of "Chivalry" is hung over the chimney-piece, and there is also a fine picture of deer by Landseer, and a colossal statue of Æneas. In the stained-glass windows are the arms of the owners of Somerleyton, viz., Allin, Anguish, Godolphin, Osborne, Peto, Crossley. The Dining Room has a fine Minstrels' Gallery, and contains two fine pictures by Stanfield, the largest he ever did, one being the Storming of St. Sebastian, the other the "Victory" towed into Gibraltar after Trafalgar. Rembrandt's fine picture of Ferdinand and Arabella is over the chimney-piece of the Library, which also contains portraits of Milton and Shakespeare. The upper rooms contain the ancient tapestry which used to be in the old mansion. Somerleyton Hall is close to Somerleyton station, 4 miles from the coast and 6 from Lowestoft.

TRENTHAM HALL, STAFFS.

The old Hall, usually called Trentham Priory, on account of its having been built upon the foundations of the priory, was erected in 1633 by Sir Richard Leveson, a descendant of Nicholas Leveson, Lord Mayor of London, who died 1539. Lady Leveson was a daughter of the Duke of Northumberland. Sir Richard died without issue, and the estates went to his sister, who married Sir Thomas Gower, in which family they have since remained. In 1703 Sir John Leveson-Gower was created Baron Gower. In 1746 the titles of Viscount Trentham and Earl Gower were bestowed; in 1786 that of Marquis of Stafford, and in 1833 of Duke of Sutherland. Additions and alterations to the house were put in hand in 1834 and carried out by Sir Charles Barry at a cost of about £150,000. Some time before Mr. Tatham had made extensive alterations, the designs being based on the old Buckingham Palace. In the Entrance Hall is Michael Angelo's statue of "Thought." The Breakfast Room contains pictures by Gainsborough, Poussin, Wilkie, Callcott, &c. The Drawing Room, has some good pictures by Vandyck, Charles Landseer and others. In the Billiard Room among other paintings, is Winterhalter's fine full-length portrait of Queen Victoria. The walls of the Venetian Room or the Duchess's Boudoir are divided into 5 large panels painted by Clarkson Stanfield. The Duke's Room contains one of the original "first fifty" copies of the Portland vase by Josiah Wedgwood. Trentham Church is attached to the house. The family motto is "Frangas non flectes" (You may break but shall not bend me). The house is surrounded by some splendid grounds, in which there is a fine lake. The Trent flows through the park. Trentham station, which is quite close, is about 3 miles south of Stoke-on-Trent.

TYTTENHANGER PARK, HERTS.

Tyttenhanger, now the seat of the Countess of Caledon, originally belonged to the Albing family, descendants of Robert de Tottience, who adopted the surname of de Belvoir, and was given to them by William the Conqueror. Richard de Tydenhanger was Sacrist to the Abbey in 1214. Sir Thomas Pope, founder of Trinity College, Oxford, received the estate from Henry VIII.; from him it passed to his nephew Sir Thomas Pope Blount, and eventually to his descendant the Earl of Caledon. The house was erected by Sir Henry Blount about 1654, the front being designed by Inigo Jones. The Hall contains paintings of the Duke of Monmouth, the Duchess of Marlborough, the Duchess of Cleveland and others. The Large Drawing Room is full of valuable oil paintings, including one by Gainsborough, a portrait of Vandyck by himself, and a landscape by Teniers. There is a portrait of Sir Henry Blount (d. 1682) in the Dining Room. It is said that Sir Henry's ghost still haunts the house. Among other paintings is one of Lord Chancellor Hardwicke when Attorney-General, and also one of Mrs. Yorke by Sir Joshua Reynolds. The Staircase is richly carved in oak and chestnut and is of very beautiful design. On the walls are some fine portraits. Other details include a valuable collection of old and rare china, the 3rd Earl of Hardwicke having brought over the Oriental china from Holland. The house is situated about 3½ miles south-east of St. Albans, the nearest station being Hill End, about 2½ miles away.

WARWICK CASTLE.

The original Castle is said to have been built prior to the Roman occupation, its foundation being attributed to Ethelfleda, daughter of King Alfred. It was destroyed by the Danes, and repaired subsequently several times. Turchil, lieutenant of the King of Mercia, held it at the Norman conquest. In 1263 William Maudit, Earl of Warwick, was surprised by the followers of Simon de Montfort, and the Castle was destroyed. In 1337 the new building was commenced. Sir Fulke Greville (afterwards Lord Brooke) restored it in James I.'s reign. It has been described by Sir Walter Scott as "the fairest monument of ancient and chivalrous splendour which remains unimpaired by time." A destructive fire occurred in Dec. 1871, but the rooms were restored to their former condition under the direction of Anthony Salvin. It is situated on a steep hill, amidst beautiful scenery, overlooking the Avon. In the Grounds are the two famous towers—Guy's Tower on the right, Cæsar's Tower on the left. On the walls in Cæsar's Tower, in which many prisoners have been incarcerated, are inscriptions carved by the captives. In the Porter's Lodge are many interesting relics. The Great Hall or Banqueting Hall contains arms and armour, including the helmet, studded with brass, of Cromwell, and Montrose's suit of armour. The Red Drawing Room contains fine paintings and articles of virtu, and in the Cedar Drawing Room is a magnificent chimney-piece, and paintings of Charles I., by Vandyck, and "Circe," by Guido; also bronzes, Etruscan vases, etc. The Gilt Drawing Room has a fine geometrical ceiling, and contains paintings by Rubens, and portraits of the Earl of Strafford by Vandyck, Prince Rupert and Charles I., also by Vandyck. There is also a fine bust of Augustus Cæsar. In the western wing, which was unaffected by the fire, are the state rooms, and collections of sculpture, armour, curiosities and pictures. In the State Bedroom are the bed and furniture presented to the Warwick family by George III. The walls are hung with Brussels tapestry (date 1604). Over the chimney-piece is a portrait of Queen Anne by Sir Godfrey Kneller. The Boudoir contains portraits of Henry VIII.—a masterpiece by Holbein—"A Dead Christ," by Caracci, "A Boar Hunt," by Rubens, Martin Luther and Anne Boleyn, by Holbein, and others by Vandyck, etc. In the Great Dining Room is a portrait of Sir Philip Sidney, which is considered the best in existence, also one of Robert Dudley, Earl of Leicester. The Conservatory contains the famous Warwick vase, rescued from the bottom of a lake at Hadrian's Villa, near Tivoli, by Sir William Hamilton. The private apartments are not shown to the public, but the other parts are open from 10—5.30 in summer and 10—4.30 in winter, charge 2/-. The Castle is within 5 minutes from the station.

WELBECK ABBEY, NOTTS,

is one of the largest mansions in the Kingdom. Before the Conquest Welbeck was held by the Saxon Sweyn, from whom it passed to Flemango as part of the manor of Cuckney. The abbey was founded by Thomas de Cuckney in the reign of Henry II., and was made the settlement of the white canons from Newhouse, Lincs. In 1329 the Bishop of Ely bought the manor, which, after the dissolution of the monasteries, was granted to Richard Whalley. It afterwards passed to Sir Charles Cavendish, who converted the abbey into a fine mansion. His son William, who was created Duke of Newcastle, built the greater part of the mansion. He was a most accomplished horseman, and wrote a learned and extensive work on horsemanship, the original MS. being still preserved. The title became extinct in 1671, and the estate passed to the Earl of Clare (John Holles). He was created Duke of Newcastle, but in 1711 the title again became extinct, and Edward Harley, Earl of Oxford, came into possession. His only daughter married William Bentinck, Duke of Portland, who succeeded to the estate. In the Park, which contains herds of deer of different kinds, are some fine old trees, including the "Two Porters," about 90 ft. high and 38 ft. in circumference, situated near the north end of the park. The "Seven Sisters," about ½ mile away, is a most remarkable tree, and originally had seven stems springing from one root. The "Greendale Oak" is said to be one of the oldest trees in the country. The Gardens are most extensive and include Italian Gardens. The lake is about 3 miles long. The peach wall is about 1000 ft. long, and the fruit arcade is almost the same length. The house is rich in works of art, and the collections include ivories, valuable miniatures, and a number of letters from Royal and other personages, including the MS. account of the regalia, jewels, etc., of Henry VIII., signed by the King in several places. The paintings include portraits of the Duke of Newcastle, his horses, the Countess of Shrewsbury ("Bess of Hardwick"), Mary Queen of Scots, Lady Arabella Stuart by Zucchero, and members of the Bentinck, Cavendish, Harley and Holles families. There are also portraits of Napoleon, Edward VI. by Holbein, Ben Jonson, Robert Cecil, 1st Earl of Salisbury, and William Wentworth, Earl of Strafford, by Vandyck. The Gothic Hall formed part of the old building, and was altered and restored in 1751. Its ceiling has most elaborate fan tracery. The Small Drawing Room, a Doric apartment, contains some of the finest examples of Snyders, also Rembrandt's portrait of himself, and the picture of St. Cecilia. The Libraries consist of five apartments opening into one another. The ceilings are panelled and richly decorated. The Oxford Wing forms the south angle of the mansion. The Riding School is a fine building—380 ft. long and 106 ft. wide. The old Riding House, built in 1623, is now used for other purposes. Over the roof are some wonderfully constructed clocks by Benson, which show the month of the year and the day of the week. It needs no adjustment for February with its 29 days in leap year. Welbeck is situated 4 miles south of Worksop station.

WENTWORTH CASTLE, YORKSHIRE.

In the reign of Henry VIII. Wentworth was in the possession of the Everingham family. It passed later on into the Cutler family, and then to Thomas Wentworth (Lord Raby), who was related to the celebrated Earl of Strafford. From him the present owner, Mr. Vernon-Wentworth, is descended. The Hall is a magnificent apartment, decorated with Ionic columns and a panelled ceiling. It contains also some fine wood carving by Grinling Gibbons. Corinthian pilasters decorate the East Tapestry Room, and in the noble Long Gallery are marble Corinthian columns. The pictures include fine examples by the great masters, and include portraits of the Earl of Essex, by Zucchero, and of the Earl of Strafford. Horace Walpole described the place as one of the very few that he really liked. The Castle is situated 3 miles south of Barnsley.

WESTWOOD PARK, WORCESTERSHIRE.

This fine Elizabethan mansion was formerly the seat of the Pakington family, which flourished in the reign of Henry I. Sir John Pakington was in 1874 created Baron Hampton. In front of the house is a very picturesque gatehouse with a lodge on either side. The Ladies' Garden is the chief feature of the ornamental grounds. The largest of the three lakes is 70 acres in extent. The Hall contains some fine old carved oak furniture, and in the windows are a series of stained-glass armorial bearings and inscriptions representing the arms of the Pakingtons. The walls are hung with family portraits. The chief feature of the house is the Grand Staircase, at each angle of which is a Corinthian pillar. On the walls are portraits, including one of General Monk. At the foot of the staircase is Baron Marochetti's excellent bust of Lord Hampton. The Saloon, which occupies the entire space over the Hall, has a fine modelled plaster ceiling. The walls are hung with tapestry, and over the fireplace is a half-length portrait of Henry VIII. The house is situated 2 miles from Droitwich and about 7 from Worcester. There are two entrance lodges from the road leading from Droitwich to Ombersley.

WILTON HOUSE, SALISBURY,

The seat of the Earl of Pembroke, is chiefly famous for its gardens, originally designed by Isaac de Caus in 1620. Writing in 1654, John Evelyn stated that they had been regarded as the noblest in England. The cedars were planted about 1630, and are probably the first planted in England. A fine bridge over the Nadder joins the park to the grounds. It is from a design by Palladio and has an Ionic colonnade. In the garden pavilion Shakespeare enacted his plays before James I.; and Sir Philip Sidney is said to have written his "Arcadia" in the grounds. Charles I. was very fond of Wilton, and Queen Elizabeth used also to visit it. The house was designed by Inigo Jones and Webb. The garden front is by the latter, and was erected 1649. The porch was designed by Holbein. Early in the 19th century James Wyatt enlarged and remodelled the house, the cloisters forming the principal addition. The Cloisters and Hall contain the famous Pembroke marbles, comprising Greek and Roman remains, the collection being formed at the end of the 18th century chiefly from the Earl of Arundel's collection and the Giustiniani and Mazarin collections. In the Hall are suits of armour, chiefly relics of the Battle of St. Quentin (1557), in which the Earl of Pembroke commanded the English forces. The Drawing Room has one end entirely taken up by Vandyck's great painting of the family portraits. It is 17 ft. long and 11 ft. high. In the Double Cube Room are some famous Vandycks, including the unique portrait of the Herbert family; and in the other rooms the old masters are well represented, the Vandyck collection predominating. In Lady Pembroke's Summer Dressing Room is a Gothic window by Price, who was granted £5,000 by Parliament for discovering the method of staining glass. The present owner is the 14th Earl, who succeeded to the title in 1895. Wilton was held by Sir William ap Thomas, who was descended from Henry FitzHerbert, chamberlain to Henry I. Sir William's eldest son was created Lord of Raglan, Chepstow, and Gower, and was commanded to assume the surname of Herbert in honour of his ancestor. In Edward VI.'s reign the title of Earl of Pembroke was conferred on Sir William Herbert, who married Anne, sister of Catherine Parr. The house is situated ½ mile from Wilton station. The public are admitted on Wednesdays from 10 to 4. Charge 1*s.* each.

WINDSOR CASTLE, BERKSHIRE.

This famous Castle, situated on the south bank of the river Thames, on a commanding eminence, presents a bold and impressive appearance, and is a landmark for miles around. Parts of the original castle, which was erected on this site in the time of William the Conqueror, exist in the form of the Norman Tower and Gateway, and the Keep is also stated to date from this period. The present building was erected by William of Wykeham for Edward III., although rebuilding by Henry I. and enlargement by Henry III. had taken place earlier. Subsequent additions were made by Henry VII., and Queen Elizabeth had the terrace erected. The Castle building covers 12 acres, and consists of three wards, the Upper, Lower, and Middle Wards, the last forming the great machicolated Keep, 100 feet in diameter, that towers above the rest of the building. The Upper Ward, or principal quadrangle, includes the State and Private apartments. The St. George's Hall, or Banqueting Room, is 60 yards long. It was built by Edward III. as a banquetting-hall for the Knights of the Garter, and the ceiling and walls are emblazoned with shields of all the Knights of the Order since its foundation. There are some fine suits of armour, and portraits of English monarchs from James I. to George IV., some by Gainsborough, Vandyck, Kneller and Lely. There are also marble busts of Kings and Princes, the most remarkable being Onslow Ford's beautiful bust of Queen Victoria. It was in this hall that the state banquet in honour of the recent memorable visit of the German Emperor and Empress was given. The Audience Room contains West's historical paintings; and in the Vandyck Room is a series of portraits by the great master. Around the exterior of the Ward is the Terrace, 1,870 feet in length. The Waterloo Gallery, which was utilised as a theatre for the performances on the occasion of the visit of the German Emperor and Empress, contains a fine series of portraits executed at the request of George IV. and representing principally those who took part in the Congress of Vienna. The Lower Ward includes the cloisters, deanery, the residences for the canons, and naval and military knights of Windsor and St. George's Chapel, founded by Edward III. and re-erected by Edward IV. The interior of the Chapel was restored by George III. In the Home Park—5 000 acres in extent—are the Royal Gardens and Frogmore House, and also the Mausoleum erected by Queen Victoria. The Great Park comprises about 10,000 acres, and contains a large quantity of deer. The Model Farm is situated within its confines, also the Cumberland pillar, Queen Victoria's Oak and the King's Oak (26 feet in circumference). The Northern Terrace and wards are always open, and the Eastern Terrace on Saturdays and Sundays 2-6, when the King is not in residence. The State Apartments are open, when the King is not in residence, on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays. On Wednesdays admission is free; on other days 1*s.* is charged. Tickets are obtainable from the Lord Chamberlain's Office in the Castle Yard.

WROTHAM PARK, HERTS.

The Earl of Strafford, the owner of this seat, is descended from John Byng, created Earl of Strafford 1835, whose father, George Byng, was the son of the Hon. Robert Byng, 3rd son of the 1st Viscount Torrington. The façade of the house, which was erected in the middle of the 18th century, is in the Renaissance (Georgian) style. Over the doorway is the coat-of-arms of the Byng family and the crest of the Earl of Strafford. The Vestibule, in which there are Doric pillars, contains a large number of art specimens. In the Dining Room are portraits of members of the family, some by Francis Grant, R.A., once President of the Royal Academy. In the Drawing Room are pictures by Vandyck, Velasquez, Teniers, Murillo, Van Berghen, and J. Both. The house is about 2 miles from High Barnet station and somewhat less from Hadley Wood station.

THE HISTORY OF THE ROYAL WARRANT.

THE Honour of supplying the King and his household with goods and to be recognised as the "King's Tradesman" is one that has always been sought after, but how this custom of appointment by warrant of the King arose is lost in obscurity. There is, however, no doubt it originated on the Continent. It is recorded that Philip of France in 1318 by grant appointed a Keeper and Repairer of his Armour, and during the Bourbon Dynasty, at the time of the notorious extravagance and excesses of the Court, the Paris tradesmen vied with each other in bribing the officials in order to obtain a grant of Royal Appointment as tradesmen to the various members of the Royal Family, and in some of the Minor States of Europe a regular traffic was carried on in the bartering of Tradesmen's Warrants.

So far as this country is concerned, however, there is no record whatever of any such Warrant of Appointment having been granted prior to the reign of Charles II. Up to that time the reigning monarch and the other Members of the Royal Family had their own recognised tradesmen with whom they dealt, who were in regular attendance at the Court at certain hours of the day, and when required were summoned to the presence of their respective Patrons and exhibited their wares and took the Royal commands.

It was of course at all times difficult for any but a favoured tradesman to approach any member of the Royal Family, and a stranger could only do so by ingratiating himself with the officials surrounding the Court.

On the Restoration, Charles II conceived the idea of, to some extent, replenishing his coffers by adopting the custom, prevalent in many of the Minor States of Europe, of granting a Royal Warrant of Appointment to tradesmen who were willing to pay for the privilege. This privilege was at once taken advantage of by many who were little better than charlatans, who, by being able to advertise themselves as "King's Tradesmen," were able to reap a rich harvest.

This state of affairs lasted during the 25 years Charles II. reigned after his Restoration, and in a minor degree until the accession of George I., who introduced the Hanoverian system of appointments and payment of salaries for the services of a certain class of Royal Tradesmen. The first appointments made by George I. were :—

Goldsmith to the Jewel Office, T. Heming, Esquire. Optician to the King, Mr. Peter Dollond. Printers to the King, C. Eyre and W. Straham, Esquires. Mathematical Instrument Maker, Jeremiah Sisson. The King's Watchmaker, Thomas Mudge, Esquire, salary £150. The King's Clockmaker, Benjamin Vulliamy, £150.

In addition to these a Chirurgeon was appointed, as also were several Booksellers. There is also record of a Sedan chair-maker to their Majesties the King and Queen.

It was this monarch who raised the Royal Warrant to Tradesmen to the highest standard and made it an honour worth coveting. Certain Professional Tradesmen were by the Royal Warrant of Appointment constituted Esquires. None but tradesmen of the highest integrity were allowed to receive the Royal Warrant of Appointment, and by this means a spirit of emulation was created amongst the tradesmen, who vied with each other to obtain the right to be called a "King's Tradesman" and to hold the King's Warrant, and this spirit of emulation continues to the present day. It was not until 1779 that the custom of granting Warrants of Appointment by any Member of the Royal Family other than the reigning monarch was instituted, but in that year the then Prince of Wales, afterwards George III, made three appointments, viz. : a Bookseller, a Wine Merchant, and a Watchmaker, and since that time it has been the custom of the Queen Consort and the eldest son of the King to regularly appoint their own tradesmen, and when the late Queen Victoria was Heiress Presumptive to the Throne her mother the Duchess of Kent exercised the right of appointment.

One of the advantages accruing to the Holder of the Royal Warrant is that he is at liberty to display the Royal Coat of Arms on the building wherein he carries on his business and to otherwise use such Royal Coat of Arms in the conduct of his business. Any person not a Holder of the Royal Warrant displaying or otherwise using the Royal Coat of Arms is liable to punishment.

The appointment is determinable at any time at the will of the grantor and lapses automatically on the death of such grantor. In the case, however, of an appointment by a reigning monarch, although the appointment lapses on the death of such monarch, the succeeding monarch may, and frequently does, grant the right to the Holder of the Warrant to continue to display and use the Royal Coat of Arms.

SHIPS THAT PASS IN THE DAY.

OUR mercantile marine is of vital importance to us in our sea-girt dominions, dependent as we are upon ocean carriers for our food supplies. The white-winged clippers have had to yield place to the modern ocean steamship, one of the greatest factors in fostering international postal, travelling and transport facilities. Seeing how our glorious history is bound up with the seas, it is a matter for regret that keener general concern is not taken in the Royal Navy, which has to defend our shores from invasion, and in our merchant service, the mainspring of our commercial progress.

The sea, the sailor, and the ship he sails away in have filled many pages in the history of the world and the realms of romance; the liveliest interest is still experienced by those brought within touch of these fascinating influences, but, alas! there are numbers in this country who have never seen the sea, many others who have never been on board vessels built for commerce, pleasure or war, and few know how to identify "ships that pass in the day." A panorama of the ships of all nations from the summit of one of old England's cliffs contributes much to the pleasure of a seaside holiday. As you watch the offing or fix your gaze upon the horizon you can feast your eyes with an ever-changing, never-ending procession, representing every kind of vessel, from the few remaining champions of time-honoured canvas which answer to the helm of the sailing-master, to floating palaces which obey the rule of the engineer. Steamers to-day carry little or no sail, the masts of many vessels being solely used for signalling purposes. Communication between ships at sea or with the shore is made with a code of flags by day, lights by night, by which means the outward or homeward bound vessel signals her name to one of Lloyd's signal stations, whence it is flashed to the owners and appears in the papers next day.

The highways of the sea are all served by regular lines. All the steamers belonging to one line fly a flag of the same size, pattern, and colour, called a "house flag," and many of them have their funnels painted in a distinctive manner. Particulars regarding a few of the principal lines are given underneath to assist holiday-makers in identifying some of "the ships that pass in the day."

The rule of the road at sea is the same as that of foot passengers on land, the direction after dark being indicated by coloured lights. The port side is the left-hand side of the ship facing the bow, and is shown at night by a red light; the starboard is the right-hand side, and is indicated by a green light. A steamship always gives place to a sailing ship.

The fishing boats along our coasts carry on their bows or sails distinguishing marks showing the port they belong to.

SEA TRIPS AND OCEAN TOURS.

THE circuit of the globe is the sphere of British enterprise, and foremost amongst the title-deeds of Britannia to her position amongst the nations are the records of her merchant shipowners, who embrace a world-wide empire with a network of services. From the days of the wooden walls to this age of steel-built steamers and turbine engines, the ships which bridge the seas, which bind us together, have been and ever will be one of the mainsprings of England's greatness.

With engines throbbing day and night the expresses of the ocean thread the routes between coasts and continents, time-tables in connection with trans-continental trains being observed in defiance of wind and sea, The ships which fly the red ensign are always weaving together the Home and Colonial portions of Greater Britain, and the part played by our merchant service in the policy of Imperial Federation should ever stimulate the patriotic interests of the greatest maritime nation.

Wonderful are the improvements made in ocean travel since the advent of the modern floating palaces; each ever-increasing leviathan registering within the compass of a single vessel the high-water mark of the chief industries of the world. A day on a 20-knot excursion steamer, a trip in a comfortable coaster, a short passage to Continental climes, or a longer voyage in an ocean liner enables everybody to gratify their love for the sea, according to individual requirements and the time which can be spared. To the holiday-maker, the health-seeker, or the invalid, to the sightseer, the sportsman or the mountaineer, the steamship opens to him the most beautiful parts of the world at small fatigue and expense, enabling him to kindle his imaginative interest amidst new scenes of fascinating diversity. To those in search of relaxation from the high pressure of modern strenuous occupations, even a short sea-trip may be recommended as one of the most pleasant means of spending a holiday. Great benefits are assured also to those suffering from worry or overwork and attendant insomnia. The effects of sea air upon a voyage are sedative to the nerves and at the same time bracing to the constitution. Life on board ship increases the appetite, improves the general nutrition and induces healthy sleep, provided one spends as much time on deck as possible, wears suitable clothing, observes moderation in diet, and takes as much exercise as a sea trip or ocean tour will allow. The removal of most of the disadvantages formerly attendant upon ocean travelling now enables invalids to restore their health under the most favourable circumstances. The accommodation in the liners which traverse the great highways affords everything which capital and skill can accomplish. They are fitted with every convenience and luxury modern ingenuity can devise; the catering and cuisine are quite on a par with those of a first-class hotel; the passengers are well supplied with facilities for entertainment, recreation and reading, and all the big ships carry an efficient staff, including a surgeon, who from the start to the finish of the voyage are unremitting in their efforts to minister to the comforts of one and all. Within the brief precincts of this article it is impossible to detail all the various charms of a voyage round the world: the change of surroundings, altered mode of life, making of new friends, freedom from correspondence, and absence from the usual daily routine are amongst the advantages to be obtained. Moreover, no education is now complete without having experienced the influences of travelling, which expands the mind and stores it full of interesting memories.

Enough has been said with regard to the attractions and benefits to be derived from a "life on the ocean wave"; it only remains for the intending passenger to make up his mind what trip he will take, what voyage he will make, or what portion of the universe he will visit or explore. Space only admits of a cursory glance at the wide range of routes to select from.

Madeira is generally regarded as the typical warm marine health resort. The Canaries offer a mild, pleasant, and healthy climate, owing to their equability of temperature. The Mediterranean resorts, whilst varying somewhat in climate, share alike certain bright characteristics which cheer the mind and stimulate the body. Algiers is an alternative residence to the Riviera or Egypt, and Morocco is a congenial field for sportsmen and artists. Sweden and Norway are visited every summer by numbers of tourists anxious to see the "Land of the Midnight Sun" from on board one of the ocean yachting steamers which periodically offer excellent itineraries. Those who require a holiday with a change of surroundings can traverse the track which carried the caravels of Columbus, and seek "fresh fields and pastures new" in the United States, or a trip can be made through the vast Dominion of Canada, which can now be crossed from ocean to ocean in eighty-eight hours by the over-seas limited express. A trip to the West Indies appeals to those who require a warm atmosphere, and a passage to South Africa, lasting three weeks, offers all the essentials for a health and pleasure trip; whilst for those who can spare the time for a longer voyage, Australia and New Zealand are ready to receive them in one of the finest climates in the world, after a voyage which is specially recommended to all in search of health.

Egypt offers a winter haven with a warm sunny climate, the land of the Pharaohs containing innumerable antiquities of interest to tourists, and mixed shooting for sportsmen. By way of Gibraltar, the Mediterranean, the Suez Canal, the Red Sea, and the Indian Ocean, India, China and Japan await the more enterprising ocean traveller.

The passenger lines mentioned upon page 787 issue handbooks for the use of intending passengers, which are full of useful information, and they will upon application furnish the reader with all necessary particulars regarding the advantages of their respective routes; the attractions available at the ports of call only briefly dealt with in the accompanying Gazetteer; and last, but not least, the most favourable climatic season for a Sea Trip or Ocean Tour.

Aberdeen—Royal borough at mouth of River Dee in North Sea. Centre for the Highlands and North Sea trips.

Aden — Strongly fortified rock in Red Sea. British Possession. Very arid and uninteresting. Good departure point for Arabian tours.

Algiers—Capital of French Algeria. Favourable climate, especially for consumptives. Curious bazaars and mosques. Olive, pomegranate and fig-trees in profusion.

Adelaide — Finely situated capital of South Australia. Regularly built, on a plain bounded by mountainous country; it has important public buildings and gardens and splendid climate.

Alexandria — Principal seaport. Station of Egyptian fleet. Built by Alexander the Great 332 B.C., and has remains of the Ptolemies. Good climate and equable temperature.

Algoa Bay, in Cape Colony, has Port Elizabeth at its mouth, 425 miles East of Cape of Good Hope. Of increasing importance. Temperate.

Amsterdam—Capital of the Netherlands. Built on piles; has extensive docks and many public buildings and manufactories. Seat of the diamond polishing trade. Good climate.

Antwerp—Famous fortified city and the naval arsenal of Belgium. Noted cathedral with tomb of Rubens. Birthplace of Teniers and Vandyck. In 16th century was richest city in Europe. Good climate.

Ascension — British island in Atlantic. Of volcanic origin. Famed for its turtle fishery. Victualling station for African squadron. Dry but healthy.

Auckland—Important seaport in New Zealand. Good harbour and climate. Many manufactures. University, College and public buildings; excellent hygienic features.

Azores—Portuguese group 800 miles west of Portugal, volcanic origin. Healthy climate, very fertile, producing bananas, oranges and pine-apples. Subject to earthquakes.

Baltimore — Large tobacco and canning port in Maryland, U.S.A. Seat of John Hopkins University. Important grain market. Agreeable climate.

Barbadoes—100 miles east of St. Vincent in West Indies. Coral formation. Very picturesque scenery. Favourite health resort. Many European institutions. Mean temp. 80° F. Rainy season June to November.

Beira—Portuguese East Africa at mouth of River Pungwe. Nearest port to Mashonaland. Good harbourage.

Belfast—Busy manufacturing town in north of Ireland. Centre of linen industry. Good public buildings and parks. Convenient centre for north of Ireland tours.

Bermuda—Group of small British islands in Atlantic. Surrounded by coral reefs. Mild and charming climate. Effective health resort. Poor soil but variety of fruits.

Bombay—Largest manufacturing town in India, and rivalling Calcutta as seaport. Good hotels and European quarter on Malabar Hill. Railway connection with all India. Excellent water supply. Mean temp. 80° F. Rainy season June to September.

Bordeaux—On River Garonne, 60 miles from its mouth in the Atlantic. Archbishop's seat with excellent museums. Exports wines largely. Cathedral of 13th century and many Roman remains.

Boston—Capital of Massachusetts in pleasant and varied country. Site of Battle of Bunker's Hill. Birthplace of Benjamin Franklin. Home of Longfellow, Emerson, Lowell, Whittier, Hawthorne, Motley, and Prescott.

Brisbane—Capital and principal seaport of Queensland, originally a penal settlement. Good railway service to Sydney, Melbourne, and Adelaide. Excellent climate.

Buenos Ayres—Most flourishing port in Argentine. Mainly devoted to wheat crops and cattle raising. Winds often disagreeable with occasional hurricanes. Heat of December and January should be avoided.

Cairo—Capital city of Egypt and seat of Government. Many Palaces and public offices. Large European population. Has greatest Mahommedan University in the world. Sanitary condition indifferent. Climate dry. See p. 823.

Cadiz—One of the prettiest towns in the world. Seat of Spanish military Government. Agreeable climate and many industries. Situated 450 miles from Madrid.

Calcutta—Capital of British India on left bank of River Hooghly. Sanitary conditions improving rapidly. Imposing native Palaces and public buildings. Rail to North West India starts here. Rainy season June to September.

Canary Islands—Group of seven large islands of which Teneriffe, where there is an active volcano, is the largest. Very mountainous. The Eastern islands have tropical characteristics, others more temperate. Becoming increasingly popular as health resorts. Good accommodation. Spanish possessions. See p. 823.

Cape Town—Capital of Cape Colony. In Table Bay, overlooked by Table Mountain. Good public buildings and hotels. Strongly fortified. Temperate climate. Low rainfall.

Christiania—Capital of Norway. Natural centre for trips and fishing excursions. Has Royal Palaces, University, and many manufactures. Original city, mainly of wood, almost destroyed in 1624. Good climate and small rainfall.

Colombo—Chief seaport of Ceylon. Resembles European town in appearance. Has fortified section for military authorities. Mean temperature 81° F. Rainy season April to June and October to December. See p. 823.

Copenhagen—Capital of Denmark and chief seaport. Fine public buildings and excellent canals and industries. Original town burnt in 1795. Taken by Nelson at Battle of Baltic in 1801. Mean temperature 45° F. Rainfall 22 in.

Cork—On an island in River Lee crossed by 9 bridges. Good departure for Killarney and other tours.

Corfu—Most northerly of Grecian Ionian islands. Very picturesque situation and mountainous country. Good climate, and produces large quantities of olives.

Constantinople—The Turkish "Istamboul." Built on seven hills. Excellent appearance from its imposing mosques and graceful domes and minarets. Outside main thoroughfares dirty and ill-arranged with wooden houses. Mosque of St. Sophia the principal sight. European town at Pera. Bazaars are of much interest. Healthy but variable climate.

Cyprus—Largest island in Mediterranean. Has lofty mountains and fertile plains. Healthy climate of usual Mediterranean type. Few amusements. Was colonised by Phœnicians 2000 B.C. and has had a variable and most interesting career.

Delagoa Bay—Port for Portuguese S. Africa. Excellent harbour at Port Melville. Has access to Lourenço Marques and railway to Eastern Transvaal.

Dublin—60 miles west of Holyhead. Seat of Irish Government. Railway communication with all parts of Ireland for pleasure trips and business.

Durban—Large seaport in Natal. Land-locked harbour with pleasant suburbs and equable climate.

Fiji—Group of volcanic islands N. of New Zealand. Very rainy. British colony since 1874. Many kinds of tropical fruits grown, and much striking scenery. Mean temperature 79° F.

Genoa—Italian fortified city in Mediterranean. Has much handsome architecture and some art treasures. Very changeable climate.

Gibraltar—Mountainous British fort near extreme S. of Spain. Somewhat arid in dry weather. Has the only colony of monkeys in Europe. Spanish currency.

Glasgow—Departure point for all Scottish land and lake tours, and there are few places more conveniently situated as a holiday centre.

Gothenburg—Important Swedish town. Does large export trade mainly in manufactured wood. Clean and well laid out. Mean temperature 44° F. Rainfall 31 in.

Guernsey—Second in size of Channel Islands. Moist but healthy. Picturesque and fertile country. Living cheap, and interesting local customs.

Halifax, N.S.—Built mostly of wood on a hill facing harbour. An important military post and station for British-American squadron. Eastern terminus of Canadian Pacific and Grand Trunk Railways. Mean temperature 40° F. Snowfall 83 in.

Hamburg—Second largest city in Germany. Pleasantly situated on two rivers, with pretty suburbs and fine public buildings and parks. Main centre of German emigration. Temperate climate.

Havre—Fortified city and seaport on north bank of estuary of the Seine. Has handsome buildings and boulevards. Good climate.

Havana—On N.W. coast of Cuba and principal town on West Indies. Has University and Cathedral, and is a centre of tobacco industry. Country very interesting, but unhealthy. Mean temperature 78° F.

Hong Kong—British treaty port in China Sea. Mountainous and rocky country. Bad climate for Europeans. Important strategic position. Mean temperature 73° F. Rainfall 84 ins.

Honolulu—Capital of Sandwich Islands. Coral formation. Delightful vegetation and excellent harbourage. Beautiful gardens and scenery. Large American population. Pleasant climate.

Jaffa—Port in Palestine connected with Jerusalem by rail. Luxuriant orange and fruit orchards. Was sacked by the Arabs in 1772, and by Napoleon I. in 1779. See p. 823.

Java—Valuable Dutch possession in East Indies. Very fertile, but subject to volcanic eruptions. Somewhat unhealthy, except in high parts. Tropical vegetation and much virgin forest.

Jamaica—Chief island of British West Indies, about 100 miles S. of Cuba. Mountainous country. Principal town Kingston, recently devastated by earthquake. Prolific fruit growing and agreeable climate and charming scenery.

Jersey—Favourite holiday resort in English Channel 15 miles west of France. Rocky coast. Mild climate produces early vegetables. Many quaint customs.

Karachi—Built on a small bay in the west part of British India. Has a large trade in wheat and a railway connecting Sind with the Punjaub. Mean temperature 77°. Little rain.

Lagos—British Colony in Upper Guinea. Centre of the palm oil trade. Commerce rapidly growing. Very unhealthy for Europeans.

Leghorn—Fortified Italian city on a marshy plain. Has considerable antiquity and a stirring history, with average temperature and rainfall. A favourite Italian holiday resort.

Leith—The seaport of Edinburgh on Firth of Forth and close to the Forth bridge. Has many manufactures and a stirring history.

Lisbon—Capital city of Portugal. Built on a series of hills on north bank of River Tagus. Has interesting archæological features and good art collections. Mean temperature 60° F. See p. 823.

Liverpool—On estuary of River Mersey, 4 miles from Irish Sea.

Madeira—Important island, 338 miles from Africa. Very mountainous and picturesque. Splendid climate and a noted and rapidly growing health resort. Produces tropical and European plants and fruits. Mean temperature 65° F. See p. 823.

Madras—Third seaport in India. A somewhat uninteresting city, but has some fine buildings. Chief city of Madras Presidency. Wet season July to December. Mean temperature 82° F.

Malaga—On South coast of Spain in a very picturesque mountainous country, the source of many rivers. Ancient town founded by Phœnicians and afterwards populated by Moors. Pleasant climate.

Malta—British Dependency in Mediteranean. Mostly bare rock, but valuable strategic position. Very variable climate, changes being severe and sudden.

Marseilles—East Coast of Gulf of Lyons. Has an old and a new town, but neither is of striking interest. Has also some military strength, but is mainly a commercial and shipping town. See p. 823.

Manila—A fortified Philippine island. Has Cathedral and Archbishop's palace, and State cigar manufactory. Centre of fruitful country, but subject to earthquakes. Mean temperature 80° F. Wet season July to October.

Mauritius—British Colony in Indian ocean. Thickly vegetated and very mountainous, with fine streams. Climate unhealthy and stormy. Sugar the main product.

Melbourne—Capital of Victoria. Splendidly built and well-arranged town with pleasant suburbs and many parks and gardens. Fine Parliament House. Excellent climate and moderate rainfall.

Monte Video—Capital of Republic of Uruguay. Very fine city with handsome buildings. Very little manufactures, though large commerce. Healthy and pleasant climate.

Montreal—Commercial capital of Canada on an island in St. Lawrence River. Magnificent parks and views and striking buildings. Port sometimes closed by ice. Mean temperature 42° F. Rainfall 26 in.; snowfall 124 in Nagasaki—Beautifully situated on W. coast of Kiushiu, Japan. Has great number of temples and very imposing festivities. Seat of important State college. Mean temperature 78° F. Rainfall 77 in.

Naples—Ancient Italian city in splendid bay. One of the sights of the world is Mount Vesuvius. Has many ancient remains, and a unique collection of articles from Herculaneum and Pompeii. Pleasant and fertile country and agreeable climate.

New York—Built on narrow piece of land to N. of fine harbour at mouth of River Hudson, with suburbs that have extended vastly in all available directions. The natural terminus of all the western railways. A city of unparalleled enterprise and progress. Mean temperature for year, 51° F. July 73° F.

New Orleans—On Mississippi River, 960 miles S.W. of Washington. Built on marshy soil. Centre of cotton-growing industry. Has yellow fever epidemics occasionally. Mean temperature for year 69° F. July 82° F.

Ostend—Agreeable and lively watering-place on Belgian coast. Splendid sands and many amusements. Has considerable exports, including rabbits.

Philadelphia—On west bank of Delaware River in Pennsylvania. Streets painfully uniform and subdued, but good parks and public buildings. Centre of oil-producing district. Excellent climate.

Plymouth—Irregularly built town with fine natural features. Calling-place for many mail steamers, both British and foreign.

Port Said—Egyptian seaport on W. side of mouth of Suez Canal, 32 miles E.S.E. of Damietta. Landing-place for many passengers for Cairo and Upper Egypt, there being a narrow-gauge railway to Ismailia connecting with the Egyptian Railways. Mean temperature 66° F. See page 823.

Quebec—On left bank of St. Lawrence River. Has a very imposing Citadel, and is the scene of Wolfe's death in 1750. Fine waterfalls in vicinity. Interesting town with mean temperature of 38° F., and snowfall of 159 in.

Rangoon—Burma. British possession since 1852. Contains the celebrated Shwe-Dagon Pagoda enshrining hairs of Buddha. Mean temperature 79° F. Rainfall 99 in. See page 823.

Rio de Janeiro—In bay of same name in Brazil Town has no architectural pretensions, but has magnificent palm avenues and gardens. Somewhat insanitary but improving. Has a considerable European population.

Rotterdam—On bank of R. Maas, 40 miles S.S.W. of Amsterdam. Has fine quay, "the Boompjes," shaded by trees. Possesses many canals and good buildings. Favourable spot for commencing tours of Holland.

Shanghai—Most important of the treaty ports of China. The Chinese town is very dirty, but there is a good European quarter. Not healthy for Europeans. Extremely hot in summer and occasionally visited by fever and cholera.

The Seychelles—Group of islands of coral formation in Indian Ocean. Principal trade is in the products of the cocoanut palm. Rainy but generally healthy. British possessions.

Singapore—Straits Settlements. Picturesquely wooded country but not very fertile. Does large export trade, and has a good European compound. Mean temperature 82° F. Sea breezes temper the heat. Rainfall 92 in.

Smyrna—Most important town in Asia Minor. Famous for its beauty and interesting Turkish and Jewish quarters. Produces fruit in profusion. Has much historical interest and a temperate climate.

Southampton—Rapidly growing as a port of departure and arrival of mail steamers. Very good centre for short sea trips.

St. Helena—In Atlantic 1,160 miles W. of African coast. Volcanic formation. Depends mainly upon fishing and potato growing. "Longwood," where Napoleon I. was confined and died, is a few miles in the interior. Mild and agreeable climate, but no striking features.

WHERE TO GO AND WHERE TO STAY.

[The figures at the end of the notices refer to the Educational Supplement, p. 824.]

EVERYBODY, however good his constitution, needs more than ever in these wear-and-tear times to renew his health-springs periodically by a holiday amidst fresh scenes and congenial surroundings. The choice of a suitable resort for pleasure or health, recreation or repose, is often difficult; there are so many places to select from in England, Scotland, Ireland, and Wales whose claims are as evenly balanced as their attractions are diversified. Individual tastes and temperaments greatly vary, but the love of change is universal. The Railway Companies and Steamship Lines, together with motor cars, have all contributed to extend the area within reach of every holiday-maker from which to choose a fresh source of interest. To enable a preliminary opinion to be formed with as little trouble as possible, a uniform method of presenting the chief characteristics of each place has been adopted.

ABERDEEN, Aberdeenshire. M.B. Pop. 174,579. A City and Royal Burgh of great antiquity, has a fine harbour and numerous industries, including granite and fishing. It also possesses a splendidly equipped University and ancient Cathedral. Means of access: L. & N.W. Ry., Caledonian Ry., North British Ry., Great North of Scotland Ry., and by steamboat. Location: 523 m. from London. Local distances: 130 m. N. from Edinburgh. Elevation: From 20 ft. to 400 ft. Immediate neighbourhood: Pasture lands and hilly country. Aspect: East and south. Climate: Equable and bracing, fairly dry. Sunshine: 1906, 1,525 hrs. Water supply: Constant. Drainage: Modern. Soil: Sandy, overlying granite. Front: 2¼ m. fine sandy beach, with esplanade and pavilion, and frequent tram service. Sea bathing: Separate. Baths: Hot and cold, and Russian. Season: June-Sept. Recreations: Golf, fishing, boating, cricket, tennis, &c.

ABERYSTWITH, Cardigan. M.B. Pop. 8,014. Means of access: N., Cambrian Ry.; S., G.W. Manchester and Milford Branch; from London, L. & N.W. Ry. and G.W. Ry. Location: On shores of Cardigan Bay. Elevation: Slightly above sea-level. Immediate neighbourhood: Hilly and mountainous, scored with romantic valleys. Aspect: W. and S.W. Climate: Bracing, with equable temperature, no fog, and practically no snow or frost. Water supply: Constant, from Plynlimon Mountain. Soil: Gravelly subsoil. Drainage: Water carriage and efficient. Sunshine: 1906, 1,514 hrs. Front: 1½ m. paved promenade, marine and south terraces divided by beautiful castle grounds. Pier: 600 ft.; pavilion accommodating 2,000. Beach: Sand and shingle, the bay broken by picturesque reefs. Sea bathing: Three stands, provision for mixed. Baths: Public sea-water swimming, and private electric and sea-water baths. Annual fixture: Welsh National Agricultural Show, in summer. Aberystwith is well provided with facilities for amusements and recreation, and is the seat of the University College of Wales (420 students), and the locale of the Welsh National Library, containing the most valuable and unique MSS. in existence. See p. 831.

They form one combined borough. Temperature: Equable. Seaport town and popular watering-place. Climate: Bracing, but mild during winter. Boating and fishing; also steamboat and char-à-banc excursions. Mixed bathing allowed, also visitors' private bathing tents on foreshore. Noted for number and standing of its private schools. G.W.R. Service to the Channel Islands.

WHITBY, Yorks. U.D.C. Pop. 11,755. G.N. Ry. An ancient port and fishing town between Saltburn and Scarborough, on each side of the mouth of the River Esk, surrounded by hills, dales, woods, rivers, and moorland; extensive sands, two free piers at harbour entrance. It now attracts large numbers of visitors in the summer. Promenades along West Parade, bordering extensive sands, the Harbour Piers, and the west bank of the river. Aspect: Due north. Climate: Bracing. Drainage: Modern. Water supply: Good. Soil: Clay. Beach: Sandy. Bathing: Mixed, from machines and tent. Golf links (9 holes), sea and river fishing, excellent facilities for yachting and boating, cricket, tennis. See p. 831.

WHITLEY BAY, Northumberland. U.D.C. Pop. 7,705. N.E. Ry. A growing watering-place on the cliff coast, connected with Newcastle by electric tramway service. Golf links, bathing, boating, fishing.

WIMBLEDON, in Surrey. L. & S.W. Ry., 7 m. S.W. of London, is noted for its open breezy common of 628 acres, which is 200 feet above sea-level. It is a healthy bracing residential town, on gravel soil well supplied with all the essentials of a modern suburban district as regards facilities for amusements, recreation and education. See p. 835.

WINCHESTER, Hampshire. Cathedral city. Pop. 20,929. Means of access: L. & S.W. Ry. and G.W. Ry.; 60 m. from London; on the east side of a hill, sloping to the river Itchen; 12 m. from South Coast. Neighbourhood: Hilly and pastoral. Aspect: South. Climate: Mild. Water supply: Constant. Drainage: Modern. Soil: Chalk. Baths: Open, swimming. Annual fixtures: Several fairs; cricket week; golf links (3 courses, 18 holes); fishing.

Winchester Cathedral is the largest and one of the oldest in England, its nave being considered the finest. Other attractions are the County Hall, the Hospital of St. Cross, the Thrupp Gallery, the Museum, and numerous institutions, ancient and modern. Near the city is the famous Winchester College.

WINDSOR, Berks. Pop. 13,958. Means of access: G.W. Ry. and L. & S.W. Ry. A Royal and ancient city of world-wide interest. Its famous Castle, founded by William I., has been for many centuries the seat of British Royalty, and, with Windsor Park and Virginia Water, claims the attention of tourists and visitors. These advantages, added to its proximity to Eton and its famous college, have attracted many residents to the district, and a new town has grown up on the outskirts of Old Windsor. See p. 831.

WOLVERHAMPTON, a County Borough, stands on a gentle eminence amid a network of railways and canals, 13 miles N.W. of Birmingham and 126 miles N.W. of London. The town stands on the western edge of the great coal and iron mining district of South Staffordshire. There is a pleasant green country north and west of the town, which is very well supplied with facilities for outdoor and indoor amusements all the year round.

WOODHALL SPA, Lincolnshire. U.D.C. Pop. 1,100. G.N. Ry., 18 m. from Lincoln, 5½ m. from Horncastle. Elevation: 50 ft. Neighbourhood: Flat and woody. Climate: Dry and bracing; small rainfall. Soil: Ironstone sand. Drainage: Modern. Water supply: Constant. Mineral waters: Bromo-iodine. The baths and pump-room contain all modern improvements. They are encircled by a tiled and covered promenade, and stand on extensive pleasure grounds where the band plays. Massage. Tennis, croquet, bowls and golf (18 holes) in adjoining grounds—angling. Season: March—November.

The bromo-iodine water, which has made Woodhall famous, is the most powerful of its kind in Europe, and many dangerous and distressing diseases give way before its curative virtues. See p. 835.

WORCESTER. C.B. Pop. 48,000. G.W. Ry. and Midland Ry. 120 m. from London; on the left bank of the Severn. Aspect: West. Climate: Mild. Water supply: Constant. Water: Soft. Drainage: Modern. Soil: Sand and gravel. Excursions: to Malvern and other places of interest. Steamers to Holt, Stourport, Tewkesbury, Ledbury, &c. Boating on river, cathedral promenade.

One of the most ancient of our cathedral cities. The cathedral, built in the early English style, dates from the eleventh century. For beauty and distinctive character Worcester china is famous all the world over. Golf links (18 holes). Surrounding district, traversed by the Severn, affords tourists a great variety of typical English rural scenery.

THE PEERAGE LIST OF SCHOOLS AND CLIMATES.

IN the selection of a School, the climate to meet individual requirements is often of primary importance to Parents and Guardians, and Educational facilities must generally be considered when deciding upon a locality for residential purposes.

The first conditions of a locality, studied from a health point of view, are the Soil, the Water, the Air, and the Food. It may be accepted as a general rule that good soil and good water are primary conditions of good air. Here, then, are three first factors which go to make health. These three will further generally produce good food. An important accessory to these fundamental conditions is opportunity for healthy out-door exercise, and for the exercise of mental faculties.

A decision is difficult where so many districts in England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales have evenly-balanced claims and diversity of advantages. Many resorts are noted for the number, variety, and excellence of the Private Colleges and Schools which flourish under favourable hygienic conditions; but the efforts of individuals to ascertain the special advantages of local surroundings are often attended with too much trouble.

Where particulars, necessarily very brief, have been given regarding the climate they have been compiled from official sources, taken principally from the reports of the various Medical Officers of Health (whose valuable co-operation has been of great assistance), or from "Climates and Baths of Great Britain." Where no mention has been made of climatic features, these can be obtained on reference to "Whitaker's List of Schools and Climates," in WHITAKER'S ALMANACK, pages 829—883.

A comprehensive list of the principal Health Resorts in the United Kingdom will be found on pages 795—822, in which a uniform method has been adopted of presenting the salient features of each town. Anglo-Indians, Canadians, Colonials, Foreigners and others, either in want of a school or place of residence, will find this a useful preliminary guide. Every essential detail is given, in carefully condensed form, compiled from reliable sources, revised each year by the local authorities, and arranged for quick and easy reference.

BRIGHTON.

Brighton combines with the advantages of a seaside position some of the peculiarities of a large town. Extending as it does some distance inland, it presents great varieties in aspect, altitude, climate, and distance from the sea. Brighton has the bracing qualities of places on the East Coast with a larger amount of sunshine and more shelter during unfavourable weather. Its rainfall is moderate; the roads dry rapidly after rain. The sunshine is 18 per cent. in excess of that of London, and the superiority is especially great in winter. Brighton is 7 per cent. warmer in winter and 10 per cent. cooler in summer than London. It has an unlimited pure water supply and perfect sanitary arrangements.

PATRON—

His Most Gracious Majesty the King.

President—His Grace the DUKE of PORTLAND, K.G.

OBJECTS—

1. To provide shelter and food for the lost, deserted and dangerous dogs of London.
2. To restore lost dogs to their rightful owners.
3. When good dogs are unclaimed, to find suitable homes for them at nominal charges.
4. To destroy, by a merciful and painless operation, all valueless and diseased dogs.

FUNDS ARE URGENTLY NEEDED

This Society grants Pensions to the Blind Poor at their own homes in sums ranging from 10s.* to 25s.* per Month.

There are at present 1,191 Pensioners residing in various parts of the Kingdom, among whom upwards of £8,000 is annually distributed in Pensions, paid monthly, through the agency of Honorary Almoners.

Elections take place in May and November in each year.

In addition to those Elected by the votes of Subscribers, not less than two are added at every election by rotation. Others are nominated from time to time to receive the "Queen Victoria," "Thomas Pocock," "James Templeton Wood Memorial," and other Pensions.

To be eligible, applicants must be totally blind, above 21 years of age, of good moral character, and in receipt of an income not exceeding £20, if single, and £30 if married. No distinction is made in regard to sex or creed; nor is the receipt of parish relief a disqualification.

Application must be made on the Printed Form provided by the Society.

Subscribers of 10*s.* 6*d.* annually, or Donors of Five Guineas, are entitled to One Vote at every Election, and multiples thereof in proportion. They can also assist in the Nomination of a Candidate.

The payment of a Legacy to the Society confers upon each Executor the privilege of One Life Vote for every £25 bequeathed.

The Yearly Report, containing the Rules, Accounts, and all information, will be forwarded on application.

Contributions will be gratefully received by the Treasurer, or by the BANK OF ENGLAND, or Messrs. Barclay & Co.

PURCHASES.—The Society purchases Reversions and Remainders, whether absolute or contingent; Life Interests, whether in possession or deferred; and generally all Interests (in approved property) that depend upon the duration of human life.

LOANS.—The Society also grants Loans on the security of such interests, either on Ordinary Mortgage or by way of Reversionary Charge. The latter mode meets the convenience of borrowers who do not wish to make any payment for either principal or interest until their Reversionary Property falls into possession. The amount to which the Society will then be entitled is fixed at the outset, and does not depend on the time elapsing between the grant of the Loan and its repayment. The option of redeeming the Charge during the first three or five years can usually be combined with this form of Loan.

Forms of proposal and full information can be obtained at the Society's Offices.
